PRICE FIVE CENTS

The War Today

IN FIVE DAYS

The toll of German planes knocked out of the British skies in the five days of intensive aerial warfare since last Thursday, approached 300 as reports accounted for 15 more Nazi machines today.

Following is a Canadian Press compilation of the air losses up to this evening's report:

	German	British
Thursday	61	18
Friday	65	29
Saturday	62	12
Sunday	78	11
Monday	15	4
Totals	281	74

(There was only scattered air fighting last Friday and Saturday.)

WAR TO ITALY

Britain today carried the war to her enemies in fierce air thrusts and naval actions while beating back Nazi sky assaults on her own industrial Midlands and the southern coast for the fourth consecutive day.

Even as the Air Ministry tallied yesterday's blitzkrieg losses at 78 German aircraft and 13 British, Royal Air Force planes flew more than 1,200 miles to bomb aircraft factories and other military objectives in four cities of northern Italy. Then they deluged the cities with leaflets, telling Italians they had lost their freedom to Germany.

At least 30 bombers were believed to have taken part in the flight, which ended with all aircraft but one returning safely. That one made a forced landing at sea near the British coast and the crew was rescued.

SCARE IN BERLIN

Sirens wailed in Berlin for the third time since the start of the war and suburban residents said they heard sounds of firing. Royal Air Force planes were said to have reached Potsdam, 20 miles from Berlin. The Air Ministry in London did not immediately report on this raid, which occurred early in the morning.

Far off in British Somaliland Italian forces, pressing their attack in a move toward Berbera, the capital, were pounded from the Gulf of Aden by gunfire from light naval units. The Admiralty said the fire held up Italian movements, which, apparently, are being geared to the German blitzkrieg.

Elsewhere at sea Royal Naval destroyers encountered light German naval vessels and put them to flight with gunfire. The Admiralty believed a German trawler and a torpedo boat had been sunk. This followed an action in which British torpedo boats routed larger German ships after ramming one of them. Their crews were unable to estimate the damage they inflicted on the enemy, but they believed it was considerable.

11 PARACHUTES

Britons, going about their business as normally as air raid alarms will permit, expect still further intensification of the air war before the Nazis make any attempt to land troops on their shores. There was a bit of excitement today, however, in the reported finding of 11 parachutes, but authorities said they were not the usual type worn by German parachute troops and had probably been abandoned by crews of German aircraft shot down inland.

Observers predicted also that Italian troops, poised at the edge of the great Libyan Desert which stands between them and the fertile valley of the Nile, would cross and launch an attack on Egypt when Germany gives the signal. That signal was expected to coincide with Nazi attempts to land troops in Britain—if the attempt is ever made.

LOSS TOTALS

According to reliable London estimates here today, the losses to the Royal Air Force since the start of the war have been put at 719 planes.

They comprise 119 planes lost in defence of the United Kingdom; 401 over the western front; 109 over Germany and German occupied territory; 67 over Scandinavia; 23 over the North Sea and five in neutral countries. These figures include Tuesday's loss of 11 British planes.

Although there has been no definite figure for German losses, officials estimated that they range generally in the ratio of 3 to 1 and sometimes as high as 4 to 1.

The Germans have lost 597 planes in attacks on Britain alone since war began.

What of the Outcome?

This letter from an English woman is published as an editorial in today's New York Daily Mirror:

"To the ordinary American citizen: Friends, it has been reported that you are doubtful of the outcome of this war.

"Now, looking back at events of diplomatic failure of the last two years, I don't blame you; there is nothing in that survey of melancholy appeasement and blustering hindrance to give reason for optimism.

"But, take notice that this war is not going to be fought and won by a few puddingheads who are unfortunately in Parliament.

"Oh, no, the outcome of the war depends on the ordinary person, people like you and me, and even on the way we live our lives through the length of England.

"This is a people's war, and we mean to fight it to the finish, come what may. And you can rest assured that England will still be a green and pleasant land when Hitler and his honorable Nazis are just a bad memory.

"Today, we have but one tradition: 'Rule, Britannia! Britons never will be slaves!'

"I am, your truly, Frances Keller, English woman.

Apologizes to Gracie

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Gracie Fields, English comedienne, and her husband, Monty Banks, have received an apology from the British Parliament for accusations recently voiced there that the couple had taken large amounts of cash from England when they came to the United States.

"Miss Fields and I left England to go to Palestine to entertain the troops," Banks said. "At the last minute the war office changed the orders because of war conditions, and instructed my wife to proceed to Canada."

He asserted they have been back to England three times since October 3, when they first came away, and that nothing was said about the money they have brought with them. It was a comparatively large amount, Banks said, because Miss Fields is paying not only her own expenses, but those of her troupe as well.

Banks said the cable apology was signed by Baldwin Webb, secretary of Parliament.

The cablegram, signed by Webb as Honorary Secretary of Parliament, said:

"We deplore the suggestion that Miss Fields acted unfairly regarding her visit to America. We all trust she will be restored to full health shortly. Miss Fields has countless friends who will always remember her untiring work on behalf of many good causes in Britain and elsewhere. She has always been a source of inspiration to our people and we trust will be spared for many years of useful endeavor both here and in America.

"Please accept my personal regards and again thanking Miss Fields for the generous assistance on the occasion of the all-star matinee held in the Phoenix Theatre on May 24 for my ambulance corps."

Chrysler Tanks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Negotiations with the Chrysler Corporation of Detroit for hundreds of army tanks were reported virtually complete this afternoon, U.S. Defense commission officials said.

The British Government has been reported ready to spend $200,000,000 for 4,000 tanks of about 25 tons.

Albertan Tortured

MYRNAM, Alta. (CP)—Mike Pasieka, 35, a farmer of the Muskeg district, 100 miles east of Edmonton, was in hospital here this afternoon suffering from an attack by three men during which he took a beating in his home and was tortured for an hour and a half, partly through the use of an automobile battery. His condition was described as serious.

British Bomb N. Italy

Daring Raid Blasts Fiat, Caproni Works

LONDON (CP)—The Caproni factory at Milan and the Fiat plant in Turin, "two of Italy's most vital aircraft works," were "seriously damaged" by Royal Air Force bombers which flew 1,600 miles in a double crossing of the Alps, the Air Ministry said today.

The R.A.F. planes, after climbing more than three miles to avoid the snow-capped peaks, "smashed the factories" and set them afire in attacks which lasted until early hours today, the ministry said in a special bulletin amplifying a previous communique.

One pilot saw "a dull glare from the blazing Caproni works miles behind him," the statement said.

All of Crews

Safe Home Again

The attack was made by a large force, all of which returned except one, which made a forced landing on the sea near the British coast, the crew being rescued, the communique added.

Over France the planes met dense clouds, but conditions improved as they flew on and only a ground haze impeded visibility when the attacks on the northern Italian cities started around midnight.

One pilot in a raid on Turin lasting three-quarters of an hour

"scored several direct hits which pierced in several places the roof of the works" at the Fiat factory.

"He could see his incendiary bombs hitting the holed roof and after a fierce blaze had broken out there followed two large explosions," the statement said.

Another pilot who made three separate runs over the works scored direct hits with incendiary bombs, starting fires, and with a heavy bomb which struck the other end of the works.

Pilots See Fires

Start and Spread

A third pilot scored hits with heavy bombs, starting more fires. The increasing haze was illuminated by blazing fires which "took hold and spread." Another pilot from 10,000 feet dropped "fresh salvos of high explosives and more incendiaries which further increased the blazing area."

Here is one pilot's six-minute record:

"First stick first observed east of south part of target. Fires started. Second stick on centre of main buildings. Third stick centre of north end of building. Fourth stick many fires started by incendiary. Weather very good."

Railroad sidings west of the factory were also hit and the railroad junction south of Turin attacked, one plane straddling the junction with heavy bombs, while another "tore up railway lines with a direct hit on the permanent way."

Bombs in Line

Across Building

The Caproni works at Milan were "badly damaged" when the raiders dropped a salvo of incendiaries "in a line right down the length of the buildings," followed by heavy bombs which caused a "series of large explosions."

An airdrome adjoining the factory and a seaplane base were also damaged by a "great explosion and then fire."

A big explosion blew up another section of the factory and additional bombs arriving "added systematically to the destruction and soon many fires were to be seen all over the target areas." One pilot reported direct hits on hangars which burst into flames.

The raid was carried out by relays of bombers and late arrivals at 12:30 a.m. saw the Caproni works themselves and airdrome buildings on fire.

A road-rail bridge at Casale d'Adda was directly hit by two bombs from 1,000 feet.

"Italian defences apparently were taken completely by surprise and anti-aircraft fire was scanty and ineffective," the bulletin said.

22 Killed

Italians Report

ROME (AP)—Today's Italian communique said:

"At 1 this morning enemy planes coming from Switzerland carried out a raid on northern Italy, dropping bombs and leaflets.

(All the British planes apparently escaped Italian anti-aircraft fire and pursuit planes.

(Earlier reports from Switzerland said a large number of unidentified foreign planes had flown over the country during the night, "probably" headed "to ward Italian industrial centres," and had then returned by the same route.

(Milan lies 615 miles from London, across northern France and Switzerland.)

"At Milan about 30 explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped, all landing in an inhabited area. No military objectives were hit. The dead, all civilians, numbered 12, and the wounded 44.

"At Turin about 15 bombs were dropped, causing no damage to military or industrial establishments. One person was reported killed and eight wounded.

"Alessandra and Tortona also were bombed. Nine were reported killed at Alessandra, including three firefighters, who ran to carry out their work. Several were reported wounded.

"A bombardment of Augusta, near Syracuse, where four bombs were dropped, caused neither casualties nor damage."

"An enemy torpedo plane was shot down by our naval anti-aircraft artillery. The crew, composed of an officer and a flier, was captured."

(This obviously referred to another action.)

Warned Hitler

Exploiting Them

The British leaflets dropped on Turin said: "Italians—To gain the liberty and independence of Italy your ancestors rose in arms against tyranny and chased the hated enemy Germans from Piedmont and Lombardy."

"Today, however, Italy is not a free and independent nation. In this war which you did not want, Italy is a vassal of Hitler. Why are you at war? Perhaps for a greater Italy? Not at all.

"You are at war to make Hitler stronger and thus able to exploit you Italians for his war."

The leaflets dropped on Milan said:

"Italians—who threw you into this war? Are you slaves to bend your backs to your hereditary enemy, Germany? Open well your eyes, because war with its terrors is now at the doors of your home."

Waves of Bombers Battled for 90 Minutes

By SAM B. ROBERTSON

A SOUTHEAST COAST PORT, England (CP)—A furious 90-minute air attack was levelled at the southeast coast of England at noon today.

An estimated 80 Nazi bombers, protected by a canopy of fighters, dived across the Channel when suddenly along the coast Spitfires and Hurricanes in squadron formations screamed up to the attack.

Great waves of raiders lost themselves in the cloud's long enough to get a few miles inland and drop a number of bombs. Many of them are believed to have fallen harmlessly on rolling farmlands.

From the shore I watched the grim battle, two separate engagements in each of which about 40 planes took part. Three unidentified planes plummeted into the English Channel and rescue craft streaked out to spots where the planes went under the waves.

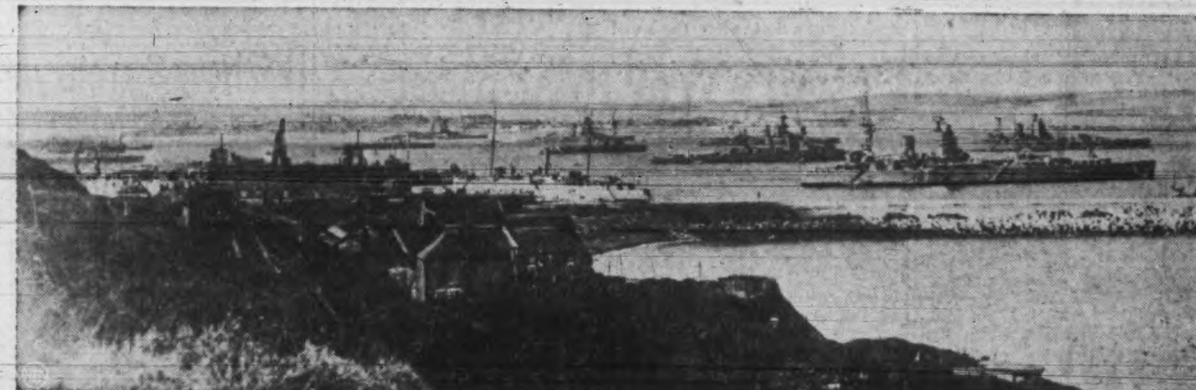

Balloons Still Aloft

After Sharp Attack

The raiders sent some balloons down today, but left many more of the balloon barrage still riding at the end of their cables.

A German who shot down one balloon in a glowing ball of fire with one accurate burst from his machine guns apparently paid dearly for his success. He immediately was ringed by anti-aircraft fire and was flying drunkenly as he turned tail for home. Either his plane or he had been badly injured.

The wreckage of a Dornier

WHERE 60 NAZI PLANES FELL—In the war's most terrific aerial blast at Great Britain, German bombers in waves attacked the British naval base at Portland. Photo shows Portland harbor, with ships of the British Atlantic fleet at anchor. Official British reports state more than 60 German planes were brought down.

bomber, strewn about a farm field a few miles inland, graphically told that Britain's anti-air landing traps are a success.

With parts of its tail controls chewed away by fire of a Hurricane fighter, the German attempted to make a forced landing. An eyewitness said he would have succeeded if the wheels of his plane had not struck a trap.

Bounces in Air

And Breaks Back

The jolt bounced the Dornier 50 feet in the air, out of control. Its back was broken by the shock and half the fuselage fell away. The remainder of the plane wound itself crazily about the tree.

Somehow, its four occupants were still conscious when soldiers camped nearby reached the wreckage. Two were speeded to a hospital. The others, both of whom wore Iron Crosses, were less seriously injured. They were taken to a dressing station and then to military headquarters for questioning.

At least two other planes fell on land. So bitter was the counter assault by the R.A.F. that the raiders had no chance to aim their bombs for 45 minutes.

During the height of the battle firing from planes and ground batteries filled the air with thunder.

Anti-aircraft batteries all along the coast sent up an eardrum-shattering barrage. I saw them account for at least three dive bombers.

If the raiding pilots had read the German communique of yesterday claiming the balloon barrage was destroyed it must have been a shock to them to discover the silver bags out in full force today.

"Old floppies" that fell before the German attack yesterday had been replaced.

Lightship Sunk;

Another Bombed

Six Dorniers bombed and machine-gunned a lightship, which was sunk. The crew members took to the lifeboat and were picked up by a speedboat that raced out from shore.

Six big Nazi Junkers 11's swooped down on a lightship in the Channel, dropping two bombs each. British fighters dived on them from high above and the bombers moved away in the direction of the French coast.

The fight at times became such an involved mass of wheeling, twisting, diving planes that it was impossible to tell which were British and which were German.

Once we could see the splash of bombs in the sea off to the east. Several dropped on land.

Suddenly a fresh swarm of German raiders appeared and began blasting away at the barrage balloons. Some of the balloons were ripped through and fell. A shell from a Messerschmitt cannon hit the ground and exploded near where we were standing. An empty machine-gun clip dropped at our feet, and fragments of anti-aircraft shells sprinkled down.

$15,000 a Year for Hitler's No. 1 'Fifth Columnist'

NEW YORK (CP)—P.M. New York's new evening newspaper, says in a newspaper story, George Sylvester Viereck, well-known American writer, is "Hitler's No. 1 Benedict Arnold" in North America and is "well paid" for doing the Fuehrer's propaganda work.

The article says Viereck, a naturalized American, "received scores of thousands of dollars" for his alleged propaganda activities on behalf of Germany during the First Great War and is continuing the work in the present war.

sent war. Viereck was said to expect to earn $15,000 this year "for his talents in fitting Hitler's propaganda to current U.S. needs."

COSTLY APARTMENT

PM continues: "Viereck is paid about $500 a month by a Munich newspaper, Munchener Neueste Nachrichten, Sendlingerstrasse 80, Munich; another $500 a month by the German Library of Information, Hitler's official Nazi propaganda agency in this country, 17 Battery Place. He lives at 305 Riverside Drive in a 10-room, $3,500-a-year apartment.

"During the critical period this spring, when Hitler planned his U.S. peace intervention 'barrage' helped by Lindbergh, etc., Viereck got a special fee of $12,000 for special consultation with the German Library of Information. He expects to get more . . .

JOB TO CORRUPT

"It is Viereck's Benedict Arnold job to corrupt the thinking of backbone Americans . . . It is Viereck's job to 'interpret' off

'color' information . . . so that it will further Hitler's strategy in his war against America . . .

The article, one of a PM series on Nazi activities in the United States and written by Henry Paynter, formerly a financial writer with the Associated Press, went on to describe the alleged activities against Germany caused the war."

WIDE-SPREAD

It said the Library's mailing equipment "takes care of a mailing list of 100,000 individual names, including the Y.M.C.A., the Y.W.C.A., clergymen, university faculty members, members of congress, university publications editors, school teachers, radio commentators."

The library "also puts out and mails propaganda tracts, such as one to prove that Polish atrocities against Germans caused the war."

Paynter said some of these writings even have been reprinted in the United States congressional record and distributed at public expense.

Final Bulletins

Give 3 Ambulances

The cost of three ambulances, $3,250, has been given the Red Cross by British Columbia Odd Fellows and Rebekahs. It was revealed this afternoon.

The sum was raised by 56 Odd Fellows' Lodges throughout the province, 47 Rebekah lodges and 18 voluntary encampments.

R.A.F. RAKES NAZIS

LONDON (AP)—The Air Ministry communique tonight said:

"Last night, in addition to the raids on Italy reported in an earlier communique today, strong forces of R.A.F. bombers attacked the Junkers aircraft factories at Dessau and Bernburg (north of Leipzig), munition factories at Lutzen and Grevenbroich, various military objectives in the Ruhr and 14 airdromes in Germany, Holland, Belgium and France. One of our aircraft is missing."

Bomb Derails Engine

SOUTHAMPTON (CP)—A German air raider dropped a bomb 10 feet in front of an express train in a suburb of this heavily-raided port tonight, derailing the engine and baggage car and injuring three persons.

Air Attacks Eased

LONDON (AP)—Latest reports tonight said 15 German planes were destroyed today by the R.A.F., which lost four fighters while defending Dover, Southampton, Hastings and various other points from attack.

A Hastings general plane was fatally injured, but the official communique said enemy activity today was "much less pronounced."

Wider Control Of Prices Foreseen

LONDON (CP)—The Financial News, discussing what it called "Canada's war boom" in its leading editorial today, said the Dominion Government "may well be called upon to impose still more rigid control over prices and consumption to meet increasing war expenditures."

"Increasing strains of war will obviously call for sums well in excess of the total normal savings, both individual and institutional," the editorial said.

"So far, however, there has been no perceptible degree of inflationary pressure and commodity price and cost of living indices show only a modest advance from the corresponding figures of last year."

The paper noted at the same time soaring industrial production as reflected in Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures and referred to new high levels in the output of non-ferrous metals, minerals, steel and electric power. The upward curve of construction activity, railroad traffic and employment were also observed.

While it was still too early to assess the precise position of the farm population at the close of the present crop year, the paper said, it may be said with certainty that "prevailing obstacles in the agricultural field by no means are sufficiently weighty to invalidate the general conclusion that Canadian business activity will continue on a decidedly high level so long as present war conditions obtain."

"The war will naturally bring considerable burdens for the national debt is even now relatively heavy at around $8,000,000,000 and will increase materially if the war is protracted."

"But the Dominion has immense natural resources still capable of vigorous development and the burdens of war finance will be offset to a large degree by the intense industrial effort which is rapidly bringing Canada to a position of a highly-developed nation."

8 Face Fury of Facist France

By MILTON BRONNER

With a Nazi-minded French puppet government dancing as the Hitler conquerors pull the strings, the stage is set for a secret and mass trial of prominent French statesmen at the town of Riom.

It is a trial before a special high court constructed on the strictest Nazi model, a court from whose decisions there can be no appeal and which will seek scapegoats for the French debacle.

The men impaled are three former premiers, Leon Blum, Edouard Daladier and Paul Reynaud; former Chief of Staff of the Army Gustave Gamelin, and former cabinet ministers Cesar Campinchi, Yvon Delbos, Pierre Cot and Guy La Chambre.

From the standpoint of the puppet Vichy government these men are guilty of having taken France into a losing war, although the charge will probably be that they allowed France to go unprepared.

From the standpoint of the Nazi masters, these men are guilty of having resisted the will of the fuhrer.

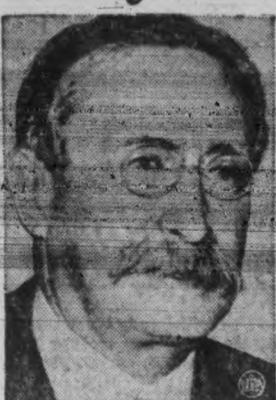

LEFTISTS ARE TARGETS

It is significant that all the accused except the soldier Gamelin are politicians of the Left, while the accusing government is made up of bitter men of the Right. Knives long whetted are now seeking blood.

French politics is and always has been vastly different from American. In Washington, leaders of the Democratic and Republican forces in the House and Senate may verbally in debate tear each other to pieces, but on the outside may be the closest of friends. That's almost unknown in France. Political hates lead to personal hates.

The big rich, the aristocrats, the ultra-conservatives, the playboy royalists, the anti-Semites, the admirers of Fascism and Nazism have dreamed of their hour and now it seems to have arrived. Old scores will be paid off. Old enemies will be crucified.

There's Leon Blum, for instance, the first Jewish premier France ever had. His father so loved France that, after the war of 1870, rather than live in a German-ruled Alsace, he moved to Paris. In 1936 Blum accumulated many bitter enemies when he formed the famous "Popular Front"—a combine of the parties of the Left—which captured Parliament and led to his being premier. He committed the unforgivable sin of passing social legislation. Even more serious for French preparedness, however, was the 40-hour work law he passed. It will probably be this that will constitute the chief onus of the case against him. Edouard Daladier as he sits on the bench of the accused will have the bitter reflection that in 1938 as an "appeaser" he was a French popular hero and in 1940 as premier who took France into war he is a villain. Son of a French baker, he made his own way in the world. When many of his present enemies succeeded in dodging service in the last World War, Daladier as a non-commissioned officer spent four years in the trenches winning the Legion of Honor, the Croix de Guerre and three citations for bravery. Paul Reynaud, the dapper, 62-year-old deputy for a Paris district, is another premier to be tried. Often a cabinet member, he assumed the premiership this year when Daladier fell. He bravely took over a losing war, but things had gone too far. GAMELIN IS ARMY'S 'FALL GUY' General Gamelin will probably be the army fall guy for the lost war, just as French generals were in the war of 1870. Only a year ago Gamelin was still being lauded as the man who had been the brilliant chief of staff to Joffre at the Battle of the Marne and as the man who in 1925-28 squelched a serious rebellion in Syria. Pierre Cot, who has been minister for air in four cabinets, and Guy La Chambre, who held a like post in three cabinets, will be held responsible for the fact that France was so weak in modern airplanes. Some of the very men who fought big expenditures for the air arm are now in the Vichy government. Cesar Campinchi, a fiery Corsican, had the misfortune to be minister for the navy in the Blum and Daladier cabinets. Delbos is a former minister of foreign affairs.

Pétain's War Post-mortem Will Last for Weeks

RIOM, France (AP) — The armistice government of Marshal Philippe Pétain has formally indicated before the high court of last appeal the government and military leaders whom it deems responsible for betraying the Third Republic by leading it, unready, into war and defeat.

It did not name them, but it lumped them as a composite "Monsieur X" in a general complaint. The court itself will fix individual responsibility.

As the blanket charge was placed before the nation's new supreme court, the old marshal, chief of state, broadcast a rebuke for those who stand accused—who apparently include, among others, former Premier Edouard Daladier and the former Allied commander, Gen. Gustave Gamelin. He said France fell before laziness, incompetence "and even sabotage."

PÉTAIN PROMISES ACTION

Bitterly, Pétain added that the causes of France's plight had not yet disappeared; would not disappear until there is "a change of men."

Enemies of the state, he charged, still were operating in the unoccupied part of France, and he informed the nation there would be changes shortly to wipe out the "treason" of executive agents who, he claimed, had prevented some of his measures from bearing fruit.

The court accusation blanketed as traitors to their charge an unspecified number of "ministers, ex-ministers and their immediate civil and military subordinates." It demanded the court inquire into the pre-war and war periods and six individual accusations, proceeding for the time being merely against the allegedly traitors "Monsieur X," and later lodging charges against definite persons. These will be announced from time to time, with a final public trial some weeks hence.

ALLEGES BETRAYALS

The general complaint, read by Public Prosecutor Cassagena, said:

"Crimes and offences have been committed by ministers, ex-ministers and their immediate subordinates in exercise of their functions. They betrayed the duties and charges in their keeping by acts that contributed to the passage from peace to a state of war before September 3 (war was declared September 3) and by acts that later aggravated the consequences of the situation this created."

These acts, he contended, were "attempts against the security of the state" and were "committed by persons whose identity will be determined in the court inquiry." He demanded summary procedure against "X"—the authors, co-authors and their accomplices in the aforementioned acts.

Gibraltar Evacuees

FUNCHAL, Madeira (AP) — Twelve hundred evacuees from the British fortress of Gibraltar, including 778 women and 316 children, arrived at this Portuguese port today.

U.S. Navy Secretary Urges Conscription

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy Secretary Frank Knox urged the House of Representatives military committee today to approve compulsory military training legislation.

Repeatedly asserting the United States faced the most serious crisis in its history, he asserted: "In the event that England goes down—and I pray to God that that won't happen—we'll be left without a friend in the world."

However, Knox said, in event of a British defeat, there would not be an immediate attack on the United States but rather a German effort to "calm our fears" and to "interrupt preparedness measures we are taking."

Ten senators, thus far non-committal, were reported to hold the fate of opposition efforts to compel a substantial modification of the conscription bill. The showdown will come on the compromise proposal of Senator Francis Maloney, Democrat, Connecticut, to defer conscription until it can be proved that voluntary enlistments can not produce the necessary army manpower by January 1.

At the opening of the fourth day of the draft bill debate government leaders disclosed an informal canvass had shown that, with the exception of the 10 uncommitted legislators, the Senate was almost evenly divided on the Maloney proposal. The leaders said there was a margin of "two or three" votes against the Maloney measure among those senators whose views were known. They conceded the result would be close in any event, and were not optimistic about reaching a vote before next week.

NAZI PLANE LOSSES PROBABLY DOUBLE

LONDON (CP) — An Air Ministry source said today that more than 140 German planes were "probably destroyed" and "damaged" in air battles on Monday and Tuesday, in addition to 140 planes which were "definitely destroyed."

It was disclosed that the Air Ministry now "accepts" the word of one pilot that a German plane has been shot down, without requiring other corroboration. This source said that, with the "greater activity" that has developed in the last few days, fighter pilots are unable to watch what their comrades are doing.

The Air Ministry previously required corroboration from at least two independent witnesses of a skyfight before counting a German plane destroyed.

German Parachutes Found in Britain

LONDON (CP) — Seventeen parachutes bearing German markings were found today in midland villages and one area in Scotland, as the Ministry of Home Security appealed to the public to report any information they may have about parachute troops landing in England.

Police and home guards stopped all traffic in the area where the parachutes were found.

A farmer who found several of them said he had located no trace of any men near them.

The midlands are England's great industrial area. Finding of the parachutes intensified a day-long search.

LONDON (CP) — The text of today's admiralty communique on Somaliland follows:

"British light naval forces yesterday bombarded an Italian troop concentration near the British Somaliland coast. The target was indicated to the ships by Blenheim aircraft."

"The Italian concentration of troops and mechanized transport was dispersed by the bombardment, and it has been reported that this has held up the enemy advance toward Bulhar, between Zeila and Berbera."

(Bulhar is about 40 miles west of Berbera.)

"The port of Berbera was again raided by enemy aircraft in the early hours of Monday, but no damage or casualties were caused."

British military circles said the situation in Somaliland was "serious, but by no means critical" after two days of strong Italian attacks and British counter-attacks.

Italians Use All Available Forces

It is evident, these military men said, that Italy is throwing everything she can into the fighting in the hope of an early victory. Yesterday the British said they had thrown back Italian attacks at Jugargan Pass, 25 miles south-southeast of Berbera.

The Italian attacks were said to have been pressed with "great

Many Harvesters Wanted: Pay Steady

WINNIPEG (CP) — Despite a big demand for harvest labor in western Canada, there has been no great increase in harvest wages, Dominion government labor officials said here today.

Wages vary from $2 a day for stooking to $5 a day paid to combine and swather operators.

Farmers in some areas have had trouble obtaining men to work for monthly wages of from $30 to $35 a month, but there has been no scarcity of day laborers for harvest work, according to reports received by the western clearing house of the Employment Service of Canada, located here.

A scarcity of women farm workers has been reported from northern and western Saskatchewan and from parts of Alberta and British Columbia.

Wages for stooking in the four western provinces range from $2 to $2.50 a day; for binder operators from $2.50 to $2.75, and for combine and swather operators from $3 to $5. Board and room are included in all these wages.

In Manitoba, the basic wage for stooking is $2 a day, according to the Winnipeg office of the Employment Service, but in some places $2.25 is being paid.

No appreciable increase has been noted in wages, an official said, although there is usually a tendency for prices to go up as the season advances.

ITALY MAY DEMAND GREEK TERRITORY

ROME (AP) — A hint that Italy might demand the Greek Adriatic coast and the Greek island of Corfu as an indemnity for the hatchet slaying of Daut Hoggia, Albanian "patriot," was contained in an editorial today in Il Popolo di Roma.

"All this sector stretching from the Adriatic to the Black Sea enters the picture of the construction of a new Europe," said the paper.

Only yesterday Italian spokesmen accused Greece of having territorial designs on Albania, which Italy annexed after her Good Friday invasion in 1939.

The press campaign against Greece, opened last week-end by the disclosure of Hoggia's death, was continued today.

NAZI EFFORTS

ATHENS (AP) — The German minister again visited Premier John Metaxas today as Greek public feeling ran high over apparent efforts of the Rome-Berlin axis to force this country to renounce its guarantee of independence from Britain.

After the conference Metaxas met for two hours with leading government officials to determine his course, although diplomatic circles reported yesterday Axis "suggestions" so far had been rejected.

The German minister was present yesterday when the Italian charge d'affaires met the premier and urged that Greece abandon her British guarantee and align herself with Axis Mediterranean policy.

$112,000 for Planes

A final cheque for $32,000 was mailed to the Receiver-General of Canada at Ottawa today by officials of Vancouver's air supremacy drive, completing the $112,000 drive raised to purchase training planes for use under Empire air training plan here, according to word received here.

The total sum covers the cost of 14 training planes, some of which are already in use at the Vancouver Elementary Flying School.

Preference Dividend

An interim preference dividend of 2 per cent for 1940 was decided by directors of Canadian Pacific Railway Company at a meeting in Montreal.

The dividend is payable, subject to approval of the Foreign Exchange Control Board, October 1, to shareholders of record September 2.

'NO THIRD WAR'

LONDON (AP) — Britain's War Secretary, Anthony Eden told the world in a broadcast tonight that "for us the real war will begin when we take the offensive and strike home at the enemy."

"That is the way wars are won and that is the way we mean to do it," Mr. Eden said.

"There must be no war weariness or peace weariness this time. There must be no third war in our time or in our children's time."

J. K. DAVIS TELLS OF WARSAW SIEGE

VANCOUVER (CP) — John Ker Davis, United States consul-general in Warsaw at the beginning of the war, told here today of the German siege of the Polish capital.

He saw the fighting from September 8, when the Nazis reached the city's suburbs, until September 21, when he led a band of more than 1,200 refugees from the city.

"To watch on, helpless, is a terrible experience," said the American diplomat, who arrived here yesterday for a short holiday. "We were constantly under fire from artillery and bombing planes and the Polish defenders set up their cannon in the streets outside the chancellery. We were in the heart of a fortress and a city of devastation."

He said a short truce was arranged and a band of 1,200 Americans and refugees were taken through the Polish lines and escorted through German-held territory to Königsberg. He stated he went to Berlin, thence to Oslo. Later he was transferred to Dublin and returned to Washington this June.

Of the defenders of Warsaw he said: "They fought as long as they had a chance."

GERMAN TRAWLER AND E-BOAT SUNK

LONDON (CP)—An Admiralty statement today said: "In the early hours of this morning two of our destroyers, H.M.S. Malcolm (Capt. T. E. Halsey Dorn) and H.M.S. Verity (Lieut. Comdr. R. H. Mills) made contact with enemy light forces consisting of six armed trawlers and three E-boats. Our destroyers at once engaged the enemy.

"The enemy forces retired behind a smoke screen as soon as they were illuminated by the searchlights of our destroyers. Before they were able to escape, however, three of the enemy vessels were seen to be hit, and it is thought that one armed trawler and one E-boat were sunk. No damage or casualties were suffered by either of our destroyers."

Control Publications

LONDON (CP)—G. H. Hall, Colonial Under-Secretary, in a written reply in the House of Commons, declined a suggestion by David Adams, Labor, that the government refuse to endorse a bill empowering the Governor of Jamaica, in council, to prohibit the importation of publications.

Guillotined By Nazis

BERLIN (AP)—Germany's guillotine yesterday took the life of the 25th person sentenced to death so far in 1940 for treason. He was Myndert Meeuwissen, 30, of Amsterdam, convicted May 23 of betraying military secrets to an unnamed foreign power.

Jamaicans Would Join Canada Federation

KINGSTON, Jamaica (CP)—Resolutions favoring the federation of Jamaica with Canada as a West Indies province of the Dominion were passed here yesterday at a meeting attended by members of the Progressive League and private citizens.

"The make-up of the Progressive League was not given in the Kingston Dispatch. It is not mentioned in the West Indies year book, standard reference work on the Caribbean colonies."

Speakers at the meeting said Jamaica "must remain British in any eventuality."

Canadian business houses and banks have been established here for some time and the street railway and the lighting systems in Kingston and the principal towns are Canadian-owned.

URGES QUEBEC REGISTER FIRST

MONTREAL (CP)—About 1,500 persons at a mass meeting called to "demonstrate French-Canadian loyalty" last night heard speakers urge they comply early with national registration regulations "because the eyes of all Canada are on Quebec."

Paul L'Anglais, one of the "independent citizens" who organized the meeting, said "the national registration is a protection for French-Canadians and that is one reason why we should register before any other section of the country."

The war in Europe, he said, was "no bridge party" and Canada must do all in her power to help Britain "not only hold off Hitler but give him the blow he has long deserved."

SABOTAGE FEARED—Rocked by two explosions after a mysterious fire that flared aboard it, the Liverpool-bound Norwegian freighter Lista, shown as a fireboat played streams of water on her, is beached in lower New York harbor. AUCKLAND BOASTS MODERN AIR BASE

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—Italy's entry into the war involved the suspension of the Empire air mail service from England to Australia within a few weeks of its extension to New Zealand, linking the furthest Dominion into the system. But this has not stopped the great developments that have gone on in aviation in the South Pacific since the war started.

The passenger and mail service between Australia and New Zealand is being maintained in spite of the suspension of the Empire scheme. The 1,200-mile link across the Tasman Sea between Sydney and Auckland is maintained by two specially strengthened flying boats of the Short Empire type. The machines are operating with capacity loads of passengers on every trip.

Now a further link has been provided by the commencement of Pan American Airways' 6,200-mile trans-Pacific service from San Francisco to Auckland. This service, together with the airlines across America and Pan America's Atlantic service, provides New Zealand with a direct air route to Britain to replace the suspended Empire service.

Australia is also making very large use of the service as the trans-Tasman planes link with its schedules. A fortnightly service is being maintained, using the 42-ton Boeing America Clipper. Auckland has thus become an important junction on the world's air routes. A modern, well-equipped air base has been built on the harbor within a few minutes of the heart of the city. The harbor itself is well sheltered in most weathers, but the flying boats have been given additional protection by a large concrete breakwater built out into the harbor to enclose a basin of smooth water.

The companies have built administration buildings, meteorological stations, service and repair shops at the base and modern radio beam navigational aids are provided by a station erected as a memorial to Capt. E. Musick and his crew, who were lost in the Samoa Clipper when pioneering the route in 1938.

French Veterans Unite in Legion

PARIS (via Berlin) (AP)—French veterans' organizations, following a new policy of the Vichy government at Vichy, have named a commission of nine to prepare consolidation of all the groups into one "national legion of war veterans."

In a letter to Marshal Petain, the organizations declared France's defeat was due to fear of work, lack of a sense of responsibility, lack of conscience, anarchy and fear of having children.

"If we want a resurrection of France," the letter stated, "adults must understand the need for a spirit of success, and children must be educated in this sentiment."

LONDON (CP)—Luncheon crowds blocked the pavement in front of news bulletins in downtown London today to learn the latest number of Royal Air Force victories over the invading German Luftwaffe.

In groups at almost every corner men and women paused to read "78 or more" or "78 more jellyfish" or just plain "78." The figures need no embellishment or amplification with details. Every one knows to what they refer and reads them with about as much visible emotion as they would if the chalk-scrabbled figures told of cricket's mythical "ashes" score at tea-time.

Discussed in Terms Of Far-flung Game

No doubt the latest count of planes shot down is one of the main topics everywhere you turn, but it by no means monopolizes conversation. People readily applaud R.A.F. successes, but they discuss the subject almost in terms of a game rather than grim warfare.

The fact that hundreds of German aircraft are making swipes at various parts of Britain all day long does not seem to convince the general public that real war is ready to break wide open.

The general feeling of the man in the street seems to be that the R.A.F. is beating back the German air force and invasion by land does not appear feasible immediately.

So life continues quite normally, at least in this section of England where the closest we have come to hearing the sound of battle is an air raid alarm. Even that was weeks ago and long forgotten now.

Plane a Minute Goes to Junk Heap

Newspapers used their largest type to proclaim the destruction of German raiders in yesterday's battles.

"The biggest day yet," said the News-Chronicle. "One a minute crashed at battle peak." Said the Daily Herald: "89 down yesterday—191 in three days—all records beaten. (An air ministry communiqué early today said later reports had raised to 78 the number of German airplanes destroyed by the R.A.F. and anti-aircraft guns yesterday.)

The Daily Mail said "69 more," adding "whole Nazi squadrons driven back."

The Daily Express observed "blitzkrieg—by the R.A.F." The Mirror headlined its story "nonstop air war," and The Times brought out double column type reserved for big events to tell its readers "all day air battles in Channel."

The evening papers devoted themselves mainly to the R.A.F. raids over northern Italy in earlier editions, putting the Channel raids in second place.

The Standard for Drugs CALCUTTA (CP)—After long delay the Indian Drugs Bill has received the approval of the Central Legislature. The bill among other things prohibits the sale of drugs and medicines of unsatisfactory quality.

Cardew said observers had seen large concentrations of big ships in the Baltic and there was a big scale massing of smaller vessels in the Norwegian fjords. Flat-bottomed boats which are stored in large ships are not thought capable of carrying tanks or mechanical equipment, he said. These would be brought with infantrymen crowded in other parts of big ships.

The writer believed the Nazis may try to pull a fast one on the people of Scotland because German soldiers have been seen taking mass lessons on bagpipes in Norway. These instruments presumably were captured when the 51st Highland Division was surrounded at St. Valery.

READY FOR GAS

He said he expected Hitler to use gas as the Germans have built thousands of large containers which can be dropped from the air. The gas for these containers is of the arsenic type used at Lille and the Maginot Line, he wrote, but no fear need be felt because fittings recently put on all British masks render it harmless.

Cardew said he thought the first indication that invasion proper had started may come when Italy strikes at Egypt. However, before the Germans can land they must clear the way at several ports by sweeping balloon barrages from the skies to allow dive bombers to go to work.

Nazis Mass Flat-bottom Boats

LONDON (CP)—Predicting the Nazi invasion attempt may come soon, Basil Cardew, air reporter for the London Daily Express, said today Germans have been building flat-bottomed boats fitted with engines, each capable of transporting 36 men in shallow water, and have been teaching swimming to great masses of troops.

"So there will be fighting on these shores?" he wrote. "In my view, yes, maybe in a quite short time. The Germans know the North Sea becomes too rough at the end of August for their shallow boats and in their neck-or-nothing gamble they may be forced to act quickly."

SHIPS IN BALTIMORE

Cardew said observers had seen large concentrations of big ships in the Baltic and there was a big scale massing of smaller vessels in the Norwegian fjords. Flat-bottomed boats which are stored in large ships are not thought capable of carrying tanks or mechanical equipment, he said. These would be brought with infantrymen crowded in other parts of big ships.

Converting Grant For New Service

Converting of the liner President Grant as a U.S. naval transport, has been begun with the dry-docking of the ship at Todd Dry-docks in Seattle.

Staterooms will be reshuffled to make room for more passengers than could be carried when the vessel was in the Trans-Pacific to fit the vessel for her new job.

Another vessel taken over by the U.S. Maritime Commission for the same purpose is the President Jackson.

The President McKinley and the President Jefferson are anchored at Port Orchard, Wash., and no disposition has yet been made of them.

All four President ships were formerly operated in the American Mail Line service out of Seattle and Victoria to the Far East.

PROTECTIVE VEST STOPS BULLETS

TORONTO (CP)—A protective vest, designed by Major W. H. Cross of Oakville, Ont., which he claims will stop even machine gun bullets, was tested here by Inspector William Bolton of the Toronto police. The inspector announced Major Cross "really has something."

Major Cross, a former British staff officer and research petrologist, says his vest is light enough to be worn without difficulty. The material is made from a rock found only in Canada.

Inspector Bolton tested the vest by firing .38 calibre revolver bullets and .45 calibre sub-machine gun bullets at it. "The bullets went into the material but not through it," he reported. "I saw the bullets afterwards and they looked as if they had been turned inside out."

12,000 HEAR GRACIE

CALGARY (CP)—Nine thousand Calgarians jammed the exhibition grounds grandstand last night and contributed $7,270 to the Navy League of Canada war fund as they cheered Gracie Fields, English comedienne.

During the afternoon Miss Fields spent half an hour singing for 2,000 soldiers at the Currie Barracks, infantry training centre. Following that she attended a garden party in her honor at the home of John Burns, president of the Alberta branch of the Navy League.

Mrs. Jennie Dickinson, 68, who came all the way from her home in North Battleford, Sask., to hear Miss Fields, fainted during the crush at the exhibition grounds. She was revived by ambulance men, who later backed their ambulance up to the stage so she could hear the concert.

Firemen in gas masks probed the smouldering ruins for the bodies of two known dead and seven missing. Several persons were unaccounted for, 21 in hospitals. 67 homes were destroyed and 124 families temporarily homeless.

At the Doors of Your Home

EVIDENTLY TIRED OF WAITING FOR Italy's "token" contribution to the annihilation of Great Britain—a concession granted with supreme condescension by the head of the Nazi oligarchy—Royal Air Force bombers and fighter craft have treated themselves to a 615-mile jaunt to drop bombs on the vast industrial centres of Milan and Turin and other communities of military importance. Italian reports of the "visit" tell us that the British invaders did no damage to manufacturing establishments, that all the dead and wounded were civilians, and that most of the R.A.F.'s "cards" were wasted on an uninhabited area. But the official communiqué of the Air Ministry in London definitely announces that the Caproni factory at Milan and the Fiat plant at Turin, "two of Italy's most vital aircraft works," were "seriously damaged" by the bombers that returned safely to Britain after flying 1,600 miles in a double crossing of the Alps. These claims are borne out by the modest narratives of those who took part.

In addition to the bombs which Mussolini's propaganda ministry says were dropped in an "uninhabited area" the Italians were showered with pamphlets from the flying visitors. The people of Milan were asked to consider this: "Italians—who threw you into this war? Are you slaves to bend your backs to your hereditary enemy, Germany? Open well your eyes, because war with its terrors is now at the doors of your home." Turinians read this: "Italians—To gain the liberty and independence of Italy your ancestors rose in arms against tyranny and chased the hated enemy Germans from Piedmont and Lombardy. Today, however, Italy is not a free and independent nation. In this war, which you did not want, Italy is a vassal of Hitler. Why are you at war? Perhaps for a greater Italy? Not at all. You are at war to make Hitler stronger and thus able to exploit you Italians for his war."

This type of propaganda has its merits: It is no secret that the rank and file of the Italian people did not want this war. It is already adding to the sufferings brought to the conflict in Ethiopia and through the Duce's participation—such as it was—in Spain. They must realize that strenuous times are ahead of them as the blockade of the British navy continues its relentless course. But the most telling sentence in the propaganda is that which tells Mussolini's regimented populace that bombs will continue to disturb their peace of mind. And perhaps some patriot who sees through the sham of the axis partnership will eventually recreate the Garibaldian spirit and revolt against Hun domination.

The League's Obsequies

IF THERE IS ANYTHING IN THE ADAGE that all things turn at last to the place whence they sprang, we can note in passing the melancholy fact that the battered remains of the League of Nations have returned to Fine Hall, on the quiet campus of Princeton University. In the hope of keeping some of its economic, financial and other non-political departments more or less intact, space is to be made available in the place where Woodrow Wilson once walked and dreamed of a pattern for a better world.

There is something appropriate to the circumstances in the decision of this "homecoming." It is no secret that the wartime President of the United States did actually meditate on the science of government while he strode the grounds of the seat of learning over which he presided. But he was not to know that the mind then striving for a formula would eventually present to the world the famous "14 points" for a settlement of the first Great War—delivered in a speech on January 8, 1918, which advocated, among other things, the following:

"A general association of nations must be formed under specific covenants for the purpose of affording mutual guarantees of political independence and territorial integrity to great and small states alike."

This is scarcely the time, of course, to weep for the League or to waste much labor on contemplation of the shattered hopes of the gallant man who dreamed fine dreams—dreams, nevertheless, that should and could have come true. The realities of the moment mock the philosophy of the former university president who envisioned the practical application of "the principle of justice to all people and nationalities, and their right to live on equal terms of liberty and safety with one another, whether they be strong or weak." Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Norway, Finland, Luxembourg, Holland, Belgium, Lithuania, Latvia, France, Estonia, Bessarabia—all these cry out too loudly today for us to hear those other prophetic words: "No peace can last, or ought to last, which does not recognize and accept the principle that governments derive all their just powers from the consent of the governed, and that no right anywhere exists to hand peoples about from sovereignty to sovereignty as if they were property."

But even at this stage of the world's mad progress it is well to remember that although the League failed, because too many of its members starved it with indifference and intrigue, there will come a time, perhaps in the not very distant future, when men's minds will be compelled by force of tragic circumstances to turn to a fresh consideration of the underlying principles on which the first practical attempt to outlaw war was based.

Employment Conditions

WHILE THE EFFECTS OF THE WAR on Canadian economy have been many and diverse, none is more worthy of note nor so productive of greater satisfaction than the very substantially altered trend in the Dominion's general employment situation—an improvement, of course, not altogether surprising, as we contemplate business conditions by Canada's comprehensive and continually growing war effort. The following statistical survey compiled by the Royal Bank of Canada indicates how circumstances have changed:

In April 1939, 473,000 wage-earners were unemployed; this was an increase of 36,000 over the same month of 1938 and of 66,000 over April 1937. It is estimated that, as at April 1940, this total of 473,000 had been reduced by 106,000 to 367,000. This constitutes the smallest labor reserve reported for the month of April in a decade. Expressed in percentages, 13.5 per cent of the available labor force was unemployed in April 1940, as compared with 17.8 per cent in April 1939, 16.5 per cent in 1938 and 15.7 per cent in the same month of 1937. Worthy of note, too, is the fact that the estimated number of wage-earners in April last was 2,353,000, as compared with 2,383,000 in April 1939, but on the basis of the average for the first four months of the year, employment conditions during 1940 were considerably better even than in 1939 with the number of wage-earners at work establishing a new record for Canada. Excluding all enlisted men, 2,338,000 were employed on average in 1940 against 2,298,000 in the 1939 period. This higher level of employment has as yet caused no general scarcity of labor but many industries report a serious shortage of skilled artisans. Should the same momentum of increase be maintained for a few months, Canada will reach a condition of full employment.

The official employment index for the whole of Canada for the first six months of the present year, moreover, stood at 115.2, or a record for the period. Previous high points were 113.3 in 1929 and 111.45 in 1930. The 1939 average was 107.6. The index for each of the first four months of the current year constituted a new record for the month, but those for May and June at 114.3 and 129.9 were respectively 1.6 and 1.1 per cent below the levels reported in 1929. These comparisons in themselves indicate a general improvement, apart altogether from the new demand for labor on war work, and suggest an economic state well able to cushion the growing financial demands.

The Bag—276.

INCLUDING SOME OF THE RAIDERS shot down in today's encounters, the tally of Nazi planes destroyed in combat over various parts of the British Isles in five days has reached 276, compared with an even 70 machines of the Royal Air Force. The larger total consists only of craft positively known to have been demolished; it takes no account of many dozens of other bombers and fighters confidently thought unlikely to have reached their home bases.

In addition to this almost wholesale destruction of German planes and their operators the systematic and obviously greatly extended, forays over strategic military points in Germany proper, as well as in Nazi-occupied territory, must soon persuade the bragging Goering that his much-vaunted air force is meeting its match and will soon have to expand itself and multiply its destructive achievements or admit failure. One of these days, perhaps, we may get a better picture of what the R.A.F. has done to the industrial areas of the Reich.

What must not be ignored of course, is the unpleasant fact that Britain will be subjected to a merciless attack when Hitler wakes up to the fact that his time-table for the subjugation of the island fortress will require considerable amendment. For unless he makes good his threats before the end of this month his opportunity will have passed.

What's happened to Hitler's Trojan horse? Maybe it's in the Aegean stable, getting a few shots at Mussolini's mare nostrum.

A college tennis star has studied four years for the diplomatic service. In deference to the anti-appeasement trend, he will avoid the word "Love."

Dr. Funk, the Nazi financial wizard, says gold is no good. Meanwhile, an English dictionary given German troops who are to invade England contains phrases like: "Where do you keep the money?"

BEGINNING

From today's London Times by telegraph
This is in fact the beginning of the "Blitzkrieg."

The assault upon Great Britain is working to a crescendo on very much the same lines as in previous campaigns, beginning with the attack upon Poland. The tactic is to batter the defensive system with cumulative violence from the air.

If the project of invasion is still seriously entertained—and the organization set up for the purpose is elaborate—all this is obviously preparation for a landing. On that assumption, the attack must be expected to increase still further in severity; and the climax may well be close at hand, for the season is far advanced.

While the Royal Air Force still bears the brunt of the conflict, winning its inspiring successes under never-ceasing strain, which only its own members can fully appreciate, it behooves all other branches of national defence, including the civil arm and the hosts of war production, to redouble their vigilance and their industry.

SHOULDN'T JOKE

MY GOOD FRIEND, Mr. Tom Merriman, who is one of the most competent newspapermen in the business, sometimes makes mistakes. The other day, in a weak moment, he published in his jolly column a proposal to remove a Certain Object from Pandora Avenue and place it in my backyard as a kind of memorial to something not clear to me. Mr. Merriman should not joke about serious things at a time like this.

I have never joked about the Thing on Pandora Avenue. I have always spoken of it with gravity, with horror, with averted eye. I have never regarded it lightly, but with profound respect. For I have perceived something there which Mr. Merriman seems to have overlooked entirely. I have realized from the start that the Erektion on Pandora Avenue was not a casual mistake by the City Council, not an alderman's bad dream, but something much more profound. I have recognized it from the start as a Symbol.

NATURAL EXPRESSION

If you will wade through Spengler's "Decline of the West," to which I am devoting the latter years of my life, you will find that all civilizations had their symbols. They never understood them at the time. No alderman in Athens devised the Doric column as a symbol of Greek civilization. No city council in Egypt adopted the pyramid as a trade mark, and no committee of church wardens during the Middle Ages fixed on the Gothic cathedral as a suitable landmark.

These things grew naturally out of the soil of the national character and spirit. The people of each civilization had a certain attitude towards life—the Egyptians a timeless attitude, being so interested in history and in the future that they spent most of their days building monuments of the past and mummies to remain after they had gone; the Greeks an interest only in the present, so that they had little concern with either past or future; the people of the Middle Ages an other-worldliness, so that they were more concerned with their immortal souls and the possibilities of heaven and hell than with the need of taking a bath in the present.

CHARACTER REVEALED

These deep, unconscious instincts, which no man recognized at the time, produced their own results, their own evidences, their own symbols. The Egyptians heaped up their pyramids and monuments to mark the past and pickled their mothers-in-law so that they might last in their tombs for 10,000 years. The Greeks built the Acropolis and decorated it lavishly because they lived only in the present and intended to have a good time while doing it. The people of the Middle Ages, our ancestors in northern Europe, reared up their gigantic cathedrals of stone, with all the grandeur and solemnity of religious feeling, so that a pagan entering Canterbury or Winchester comes out a Christian in spite of himself, and even American tourists have been known to pray.

They say that a man will betray his true character if he writes long enough—a theory which I have so far managed to defy with complete success. Whether that be true or not, a civilization eventually betrays its soul by the works of its hands, as in Egypt, Greece and northern Europe.

The United States has demonstrated its soul in its skyscrapers, subways and hot dog stands—a strange mixture of nobility and tawdriness, of strength and weakness, of greatness and smallness. Canada, having no national character of its own yet, had, up to recently, produced no symbols of any sort, no monuments, no outward signs. The world waited for Canada to grow up, to exhibit its soul, to show by outward works what lay beneath the surface. It has waited in vain. We have taken our symbols almost entirely from England and from the United States, the Canadian mind being a pale echo of both and not a new product, as it should be in a new country.

THE THING

Then came the Thing on Pandora Avenue. I recognized it at once for what it was, the echo rising from the deep soul of our people, the symbol heaved up out of the depths of our being, the mirror of our spirit, the shape and contour of our national character. Others might say it was merely the City Council's joke on the taxpayers, an alderman's diseased yearning, the tortured libido of municipal politics. Ah, but I knew better.

I saw there the symbol. I saw there on Pandora Avenue the successor to the pyramids, the Acropolis, to Canterbury Cathedral. I recognized it instantly and was appalled.

So appalled that I lacked the courage to tell the truth about it before today. I represented it as everything it was not, trusting vainly that somehow it might be removed; hoping desperately that I might be wrong, that the Thing might disappear. But no, it does not disappear. It remains because the public likes it. It survives because, subconsciously, it reflects the public mind and the public will not hurl it from its foundation. Like the golden calf erected in the wilderness, it is worshipped by a people whose quality of mind is here reflected as accurately as in a mirror.

PERFECT SYMBOL

Therefore, Mr. Merriman, do not joke about it. Go and look at the Thing. Look at it by daylight and at dead of night. Observe its fat and glistening sides, its obscene bulge, the shapeless amorphous stark bulk of it. Look at it and try to imagine what kind of a subconscious mind it reflects. Imagine, if you can, what a psychoanalyst would say about the race which built it and maintains it. And do not destroy it, Mr. Merriman. Do not move it, for that is useless. The monument may be torn down but the soil which gave it birth, the deep substance which heaved it up, the character which it reflects, still remains. You can destroy the mirror,

AIR STRENGTH

HOW LONG CAN the combatants keep on losing planes and plane-crews at the present rate? What is the real comparative strength of the German and British air forces today? What are the prospects for changes in that relationship in the future? What other factors are there about air warfare that might affect the winning or losing of the war in that element? These are the questions which are running through many of our minds these days as the stories of heavy losses keep pouring in.

It is safe to say that only a handful of people in all the world know all the answers to the above questions; and those who know won't tell. Nevertheless, it is possible for the outsider to get a fair idea of the general picture, if available bits of accurate information are pasted together.

According to the Aeroplane, outspoken and authoritative British weekly (which has never sung any lullaby on behalf of the government), British airplane factories have now definitely passed Germany's production of 1,800 aircraft per month. This aviator's journal specifies Germany's daily production as 10 Messerschmitts, 15 Heinkels, 25 Junkers, 10 Dorniers. Total German engine production is estimated at 2,500 per month.

The Aeroplane suggests that Britain may reasonably expect an additional rapid increase in strength from planes produced in and purchased from the United States. Nevertheless, Britain's total operational strength is as yet below that given for Germany, namely 16,000, which figure includes troop carriers but not trainers.

The British Commonwealth is fighting Italy as well as Germany. It therefore seems unwise to be too sanguine about the net effect of United States help. Germany has long since incorporated into her airplane production machine the factories taken over from Czechoslovakia, Austria and Poland. It will be but a matter of weeks till she does likewise with the facilities in other conquered countries, including France.

THUNDER OVER ENGLAND

From New York Times
According to a London dispatch from Mr. Vincent Sheehan, the most eloquent expression of the "emotional or philosophic content of many minds" in wartime England is an American play called, "Thunder Rock." It opened obscurely in an experimental theatre, unadvertised, uncriticized. It was "made" by the passage of tongues, and the workshop of South Kensington is giving place to the brilliance of West End. Why has a play that ran one week in New York last November finally found its audience in cabinet ministers, army and navy officers, soldiers, civilians, highbrows, lowbrows, who rest the playbill on a gas mask and emerge into blackout?

It is an expression of determination and faith that the life of confusion and war in our time is really worth the living. An idealist newspaperman, disillusioned by a crumbling world, broods on a group of immigrants wrecked in Lake Michigan in 1849. They must have been confident citizens of a progressive era. But they are too despondent. From his vantage point of experiencing the truth of the causes they believed in, he tells them that they lost faith too soon.

New Yorkers admire the pitch and str of the first two acts but found the third posturing, talky, platitudinous. Londoners are shaken and silenced by its emotion. To people not knowing when next the bombs will fall, thinking in fundamentals is easy. Sentiments that seem mawkish in peacetime Manhattan becomes profoundly real and moving to those actually experiencing them. Suddenly a war tune, a slogan, a play like "Thunder Rock," catches the fire of the popular longing and becomes a dramatic enunciation of its desperation and hope. Stepping forth from theatre, Britons tilt their helmets and scan the summer sky with new defiance.

PLEASING PERSONALITIES

From Toronto Star
August's month in which a fellow wouldn't mind being a cool customer, the naked truth, a chilly receptionist, or even the but not the object reflected in it. You can tear down the Thing and the men who made it will remain. Worse, you can remove it to my backyard and I shall write about it. I shall still know that at last our civilization has found its perfect symbol and nothing can be done about it.

It is in relation to the above that we should consider the adequacy or inadequacy of Canada's contribution. Highest claim yet made from Ottawa is that we are producing in Canada five planes per day, without motors or propellers. If we were producing at the German rate we to Canada would be producing over 250 planes per month and something over 300 motors. Measured by conditions a year ago we are doing well. Measured by the vital need—far from well enough.

QUALITY COUNTS

THE PROOF OF the pudding is in the eating. The air battles now going on over Britain are testing out two opposing doctrines. The Nazis have consistently and deliberately produced comparatively flimsy machines and comparatively crude motors because they calculated that the ratio of war loss was sure to be high in any event. The British have stuck to hand-machined engines, built to last several times as many flying hours as the German type. This British policy has made it extremely difficult to expand production overnight, but results so far seem to justify insistence on engine perfection.

British squadrons have become accustomed to fighting larger German formations. When the time comes that we actually outnumber the Germans in the air the whole war picture might change for the better with amazing swiftness.

Perhaps the most important factor of all will be what some hard-headed Britons have been betting on from the very first—namely, the oil and gasoline question. Planes require high octane gas to fly efficiently. Instead of the standard 100 octane gas demanded by commercial aviation companies everywhere the Nazi tanks in the planes recently shot down in England contain 80 octane and sometimes even 70 octane stuff. This cuts their speed, often with fatal results. It also ruins the motor hours before their time. The general picture is therefore increasingly encouraging.

Earl of Athlone And Princess Alice Study Country

OTTAWA (CP) — Two of the busiest people in Canada these days are the Governor-General and Princess Alice. Strangers in the Dominion, they have their hands full in getting to know Canada and its people, but in addition to formal duties they have taken on the job of encouraging and stimulating the country's war effort in every way possible.

The vice-regal couple in Ottawa are emulating the King and Queen who they represent in Canada. Their first visits began early in April, after the Governor-General's appointment when the Earl of Athlone paid official visits to the Canadian troops in England and to the Canadian High Commissioner's office in London.

Since he was sworn in at Ottawa, the Earl of Athlone, usually attired in the uniform of a British major-general, has visited, among other things, the headquarters of the three armed forces, the National Research Council, and several local factories engaged in war work.

He officially opened No. 2 Service Flying Training School at nearby Uplands Airport, inspected various military units and last week journeyed to Petawawa, Ont., to observe military operations there.

Princess Alice spends much time away from Rideau Hall also. She was guest of honor at a ceremony at Rockcliffe air station, where she received a $100,000 Bolingbroke bomber donated by the I.O.D.E.

She often accompanies the Governor-General on his visits, and has herself a number of things to attend to, such as visits to hospitals, Red Cross headquarters and Girl Guide camps.

Throughout the Parliamentary session two mornings a week were set aside by the Earl of Athlone to receive members of Parliament and talk over conditions in the various constituencies. His Excellency thus got to know a good deal about the far-flung districts of the Dominion and their peculiar problems.

Refresher Course Inspires Nurses

Unanimously agreeing with Sister Mary Claire's closing remarks that they were "rejuvenated and inspired with new vision," 80 enthusiastic members of the provincial Registered Nurses' Association's course in leadership, which concluded Saturday, set to work on some plans for a similar refresher course next summer.

A corps was formed by Miss Margaret E. Kerr, K.A., R.N., of the University of British Columbia staff, to direct the adult groups of the province in the work already initiated. Local members of the committee are Sister Mary Claire, Miss L. Black, Miss E. Plunkett, Miss L. Creelman, Mrs. A. Reid, Mrs. E. Hanson, Miss Pearson, secretary.

Miss Lena Mitchell, on behalf of the registrars, paid high tribute to Miss Cavers, convener of the committee arranging the course, and to Miss H. Randall, executive secretary of R.N.A., and to the committee responsible for the success of the course. A special vote of thanks was extended to Miss Marion Lindburgh, M.A., R.N., director of the school for graduate nurses at McGill, under whose able direction the course was conducted.

The majority of the 35 nurses who came over from the mainland, including those from Calgary and Edmonton, have now returned home; but Miss Lindburgh is extending her stay on the island for a short time to enjoy a holiday before returning east.

Jasper Week-enders

A long week-end holiday at Jasper Park Lodge in the heart of the Rockies is an ideal tonic for those who find it impossible to steal away for more than a few days at this season of the year. Catering to these week-enders, the Canadian National Railways operates "special bargain trips" to its famous holiday resort during the vacation season.

The last in this year's series will take place Friday, August 23, to return to the coast again the following Wednesday morning.

Ticket limits provide for departure on train leaving Vancouver at 7.15 p.m., Friday, August 23, returning from Jasper station not later than 1.05 p.m., Tuesday, August 27.

Weddings

WYLLIE-ATKINSON

The United Church, Ladysmith, was the scene of a quiet wedding Monday afternoon, when Gladys Wilson, daughter of Mrs. W. Atkinson, and the late Mr. Atkinson, Ladysmith, was married to Pte. Jack Wyllie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wyllie, Chemainus. The Rev. Mr. Burns officiated. The ceremony was witnessed by close friends and relatives.

The bride was attractively dressed in a sand silk crepe dress with small blue felt hat with pink gladioli. Edith Atkins was her sister's only attendant, wearing a rose silk crepe frock with white hat and accessories and a corsage of pink gladioli. Gerald Smith, Chemainus, was best man.

Pte. and Mrs. Wyllie will live in Victoria, where the groom is stationed.

BARSBY-PERRY

NANAIMO—Halliburton United Church was the scene of a pretty wedding recently when Rev. G. Knox united in marriage Gladys Elaine Perry, only daughter of Mrs. William Roper and the late Mr. William Roper, and Mr. John Barsby, son of ex-Mayor and Mrs. John Barsby.

Mr. Roper gave his stepdaughter in marriage and she was smart in a dress of white silk net, over bridal satin, designed with a full skirt, semi-tight bodice and short jacket. Large rosettes trimmed the skirt, which dipped to a short train. The rosettes, of shirred lace, were inset with medallions designed in lovers' knots. A coronet of orange blossoms and seed pearls held the veil. A shower bouquet of rosebuds and carnations completed the charming toilette.

Miss Iris Barsby, the bridesmaid, wore coral pink net over taffeta. Her picture hat was of pink and she carried a sheaf of carnations. Mr. A. Knowles was best man. During the signing of the register Mrs. W. Thompson sang, accompanied by Miss Phyllis Barsby.

Following the church ceremony, the guests returned to the home of the bride's parents and were received by Mrs. Roper, who wore lavender lace, with white accessories, assisted by Mrs. Barsby, in a navy crepe outfit, with white accessories.

The bride, given away by her mother, in the absence of her father on active service, was attired in a suit of navy blue, with white accessories and a white hat. Pink roses and swanonia formed her bouquet. Her only attendant was Miss Margaret Harper, in a frock of pink sheer, with white hat and corsage of carnations and violets. Mr. Wilbur McGee was best man.

ANDERSON-MILLER

At a quiet ceremony performed by Rev. F. W. McKinnon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Miller, 3344 Oak Street, Grace Eileen, only daughter, became the bride of Gilbert J. Anderson, R.C.A.M.C., youngest son of Mr. David Anderson, Earl Grey Street, and the late Mrs. Anderson, on August 3. Mrs. P. Coleman played the wedding marches and accompanied Mrs. George Markland, who sang "Because" as the register was being signed.

The bride, given away by her father, wore an afternoon frock of old rose crepe, with a French blue dot hat and veil, and a corsage bouquet of gardenias. Mrs. B. Richards, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, in a powder blue dress, with a small hat and a corsage bouquet, and Peggy McDonald was the junior attendant in a long frock of turquoise blue taffeta. Mr. David Miller, brother of the bride, was best man.

During the ceremony the couple stood under a floral arch, and later supper was served at a table centred with the bride's cake. Mrs. Miller received her guests in a navy blue sheer ensemble, and was assisted by the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. F. Appleby, in old rose and white.

After a trip up-island, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will make their home on Oak Street for the present.

50 British Mothers Stranded in East

MONTREAL (CP)—Fifty British mothers, some of them titled Englishwomen, are waiting in Montreal for the Council for Overseas Children to solve their problems of existence in Canada. They have money in English banks, but are unable to touch it because of Foreign Exchange regulations.

With them are their children whom they brought here as part of the largest evacuation of youngsters from Britain in recent weeks.

A number thought they had sufficient funds available in Canada to support them. Others came out on "presumed invitations" and still others were invited by friends or relatives who failed to realize the difficulties, including financial ones, attendant upon taking an adult into their homes.

Whatever their belief, the mothers found the council geared to its principal task of placing British guest children in Canadian homes and unprepared to find homes for adults.

"While it is relatively easy to place children," a spokesman for the council said, "there are few places that are able to take care of a mother."

Now they are in the hands of the organization, which is studying their problem and supporting them on a "temporary basis" from private contributions in private homes and college residences. Officials say they are "not worried, but are wondering what is the best policy to follow."

The spokesman said the matter has been brought to the attention of the Canadian government and "we are quite satisfied it will handle this thing properly."

Meanwhile, it is understood care is being taken to see that no more adults are allowed to come here without positive guarantees of support or without assurance "that the people inviting them realize what they are doing."

Women Preserve Emergency Jam

The special jam-making committee of the Local Council of Women are wasting no time in conserving Vancouver Island's abundance of fruit so that it may be used for war emergencies or other purposes which the Red Cross may find for them. Yesterday at Lake Hill Community Hall 75 pounds of plum jam and 18 quarts of Bartlett pears were added to the already large store which has been put up by this voluntary group of workers.

Those assisting in the work were Mrs. A. E. Hopkins, Mrs. W. L. Llewellyn, Mrs. P. Rayment, Mrs. F. H. Parsons and Miss Molly Llewellyn. The fruit which went to the making of the 75 pounds of plum jam was given by Major McDougall, Hampshire Road (50 pounds), and Mrs. Arnold, Lynwood Avenue (25 pounds). Mme. Estelle Toume, Estevan Avenue, gave the pears.

Colonel S. L. McMullen, "Strangewood," Gordon Head, has given eight large sacks of apples, which will be cooked at another time sometime next week. The store of preserves at the cold storage plant has also been supplemented by two lots of fruit put up at private homes. This includes a supply of blackberry and apple jam made by Miss Eileen Smyth from 30 pounds of blackberries and apples, given by Mrs. R. P. Kingscote, Munro Street, and 48 pounds of blackberry jam cooked by Mrs. A. E. Hopkins and Mrs. P. Rayment, at the home of the latter, from fruit given by M. Kearley, Metchoin.

Daughters of England Lodge Primrose, met Friday in S.O.E. Hall. Worthy President, Mrs. Harper, presiding, assisted by District Deputy Mrs. Bridges. Plans were made for a rummage sale and a bazaar. Dates to be announced later. Mrs. Edmonds reported delivery of a parcel of socks for the Red Shield Salvation Army.

'Y' Girls Hosts To Service Men

The Senior Business Girls' Club of the Y.W.C.A. were hostesses to about 45 men from Macaulay Point Barracks at high tea at the Y.W.C.A. following a delightful drive last Sunday. Members of the club served tea. Miss Dorothy Spencer was in charge of a varied program which included Mr. and Mrs. D. Parfitt, vocalists, and Mr. J. Griffiths, soloist, accompanied by Miss Winnie Baxter; Miss Verna DeMacedo, soloist, accompanied by Miss Bessie Crowther, and Mr. Ernie Cockford, who entertained the party with clever conjuring tricks. The afternoon was made possible through the co-operation of Rev. J. Herdman, war services secretary of the Y.M.C.A., and the girls' work department of the Y.W.C.A. and members of the Three Services Auxiliary. As the men were from all parts of Canada and overseas the afternoon was very much enjoyed.

Next Monday's program will be canceled in favor of the dance to be held at the Shrine Hall on Tuesday, August 20, from 8.30 to 11.30. The dances are for the men of the three services, and will be cordially welcomed, and for girls of the senior club department of the Y.W.C.A. who will act as hostesses, with Mrs. Ross Crane as convener.

Caught in a happy mood following their marriage Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Hoyle receive their guests before the fireplace at the home of Mrs. F. X. Russell, Belmont Avenue. Mrs. Hoyle before her marriage, which took place at St. Matthias Church, was Miss Valerie Swan, only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Swan. Mr. and Mrs. Hoyle will make their home on Seaview Road, Ten Mile Point.

Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Miller were guests during last week-end at Priestman's Cottage Resort, Nanos Beach, V.I.

Mrs. J. V. Dillabough of Winnipeg is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Dillabough, Franklin Apartments.

Singing, readings, recitations and reminiscences of older days were enjoyed last Saturday afternoon in Beacon Hill Park by 20 friends of Mrs. MacCrie, McCleure Street, who gathered to celebrate her 52nd birthday. The guest of honor was presented with a beautiful corsage of rose and ferns and a bouquet of roses. A birthday cake decorated the tables. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pettigrew, Mr. and Mrs. George Twalmey, Mr. and Mrs. A. Le Moss, Mr. and Mrs. Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Ford, Mesdames Kay, Knowles, Caporn, Hatch, Ellis, McCaw, McKinnon and Miss Jessie Watt. Mr. and Mrs. Bullivant called to greet old friends.

Amid a profusion of lovely flowers sent them by their many friends in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding day, Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Jones, Cowichan Street, held a delightful reception last evening at the home of their son-in-law and only daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Thomson, 2755 Cadboro Bay Road. About 80 friends called to convey their best wishes and join in the happy celebration.

Many gifts and flowers were received by Mr. and Mrs. Jones at their own home and many more were received during the reception. Assisting the bride and groom of 50 years ago to receive their friends were Mrs. Hoyle, Vancouver, formerly Miss Mabel Bunting, who is Mrs. Jones' sister, and Mrs. Arthur Mallett, formerly Miss Georgie Keeler, both of whom were bridesmaids at the wedding. Assisting in the pouring of tea and coffee during the evening were Miss Hazel Shakespeare, Mrs. A. J. Patton and Mrs. A. L. Robinson. Miss Gwen Williams and Mrs. John Thomson served the guests. Supper was served from a table covered with a gold lace cloth and illuminated by golden candles in silver candlesticks. In the centre was a deep gold bowl filled with a mixture of summer flowers in the predominating shade of gold. A handsome two-tier wedding cake, ornamented with little gold-roses, was cut by the bride of 50 years ago. The centre-piece was a gift from relatives in Vancouver. In addition to messages and gifts from Victoria friends, many were received from Vancouver and Seattle. Unable to attend were Mr. and Mrs. Jones' son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jones, Los Angeles.

On Monday evening members of the Georgian Choir met at the home of Mrs. J. B. Hudson to dispatch to the Red Cross Society 110 garments for refugees which they have made during the last month, under the direction of Mrs. Georgina Watt.

Land Army Girls In England Now Are 8,000

By GLADYS ARNOLD

LONDON (CP)—"Our home fields are our battlefields" is the slogan and battlecry of members of Britain's women's land army whose numbers have risen to 8,000.

Greater acreage under cultivation, flourishing farms where men have been called away to military service, a distinct improvement in the health of these young women are the first results of this campaign inspired by Lady Denman, honorary director of the land army.

Scattered through Britain in small groups or individually on farms, robust girls and women between the ages of 18 and 40 are diligently hay-making, harvesting, adding to push up the total of Britain's food production.

Mrs. Walter Elliot, chairman of the London committee, showed me lists of the different professions from which the women have been drawn. Manicurists, physical training instructors, teachers, secretaries, mannequins, dancers, domestics, shop girls, milliners—all are represented.

THOUSANDS TURNED DOWN

"And yet we've had to turn down thousands more because we haven't places for them," said Mrs. Elliot. "Some girls working in factories write that they would like to go into the land army and do national service, not realizing that making button-holes for soldiers' uniforms is already doing their part."

The untrained women are first sent to a model farm at one of the agricultural colleges where they receive board, lodging, free instruction and 10 shillings ($2.50) a week pocket money from the government for a month. Dairying, stock and poultry raising, milking and tractor driving is studied. Each local committee inspects the farms where the girls are sent. They receive 28 shillings a week for a 48-hour week. All overtime is paid for. They sign up for the "duration."

IN FORESTRY SCHOOLS

Some girls who have had secondary school instruction are trained in horticulture, others in the forestry schools. The forestry measuring corps groups girls who trim logs, measure and saw them up in lumber camps, as well as plant young saplings in a reforestation plan. The only thing they don't do is actually fell the trees.

The land girls themselves are a brown, healthy-looking lot. It's difficult to recognize them after a few weeks in the open air.

Their strong cotton shirts, warm pullovers, overall coats and "dungarees" are smart, washable and serviceable. A group of these girls with their hooves over their shoulders, marching along a country roads singing, is a picture to revise all ideas of farm life.

"Indeed," said Mrs. Elliott with a twinkle in her eye, "the land army may solve another problem. One of the reasons that women never liked to go out to the farms was because they felt helpless and lonely. We send these girls out usually in groups of two or three.

School Board

Bible Reading and Cadet Training Favored

By a majority vote in committee the City School Board last night approved a motion of Trustee F. A. Willis calling for selected Bible reading in city schools.

Provision was made in the motion to excuse conscientious objectors from participating in the religious study.

The resolution will be forwarded to the September convention of provincial school trustees in the hope of action by that body may influence the Department of Education to include the subject in the regular curriculum. Copies will also be sent to the Department of Education and to Victoria members in the Provincial Legislature.

Before going into committee the board heard definite support of the proposal from the sponsor and Mrs. A. S. Christie, chairman. P. E. George said the matter had exercised his attention for some time. It had been discussed at all the conventions he had attended, but had failed to secure definite action. He did not think provincial legislation on the question would be passed until British Columbia school boards had spoken in its favor with a strong and united voice.

The actual motion would establish reading of "such portions of the Bible as are deemed advisable" as a definite part of the school curriculum, but would allow children of those with conscientious objections to retire to other studies.

Trustee Willis, admitting the first place for the study of the Bible was the home, declared that practice was ignored in virtually all households here.

He spoke of the position of children without religious training.

"If they don't know their Bible they don't know what is right and wrong," he stated.

He cited, without name, the case of a second year college girl who, confronted with mention of the Ten Commandments, had asked what they were and where they came from.

The trustee emphasized the point he did not wish to force Bible teaching on those conscientiously opposed to it, noting there were many different creeds and sects represented in city schools. But, he added, the boys and girls of Victoria's schools should have the opportunity of Christian studies.

He spoke of the Empire's fight for freedom of thought and liberty of conscience as he developed his noncompulsory theme before adding he thought the western country had fallen away from the old ideals that had made Britain.

Trustee Mrs. Christie lent emphasis to Trustee Willis' declaration by declaring children being denied religious training and that Sunday schools were poorly attended. She cited Lord Halifax on the need for prayer.

Trustee George voiced his accord with other speakers before Trustee R. H. Green moved the issue be referred to committee for further discussion.

The board broke out Monday afternoon and spread from the neighborhood of Welch Road toward the sea through the property of A. J. Mycock. No serious damage was done, Chief J. Law of the Saanich department, reported. Firemen attended until a late hour Monday night and road crews took over from them.

There are upwards of 60 lakes on lower Vancouver Island, with in 20 miles of Victoria, many of which are little known to the general public yet they are some of the most picturesque spots on the island, Dr. Richard Felton, city health officer, told the Kiwanis Club in a luncheon address in the Empress Hotel yesterday.

Dr. Felton, whose hobby is finding unlisted lakes, conducted his audience on a quick tour of the lower island which he pointed out numerous lakes, many of which the clubmen had never heard of before.

It was curious to note that while lakes were scattered generally around the city that there were none on the Saanich Peninsula north of Elk and Beaver Lakes, he said. He told interesting anecdotes and brief histories of several of the lakes, including Glanz, where the Y.M.C.A.'s Camp Thunderbird is located. It was Dr. Felton who suggested this is a possible site for the camp.

W. T. Straith, M.P.P., expressed the club's thanks to Dr. Felton.

Although it apparently floated for days in the North Atlantic after the mail ship had been sunk a letter from a Victoria mother, Mrs. L. J. Caldwell, 2209 Lydia Street, to her soldier son, William L. Caldwell, with the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, arrived safely, although considerably late. The letter was washed up on the Irish coast and duly delivered. Corporal Caldwell recently returned the letter to his mother with the story of its experience.

The City School Board last night unanimously endorsed a motion vouching sympathy and support for a Council of Public Instruction regulation empowering the Minister of Education to establish compulsory cadet training in schools throughout British Columbia.

A copy of a circular letter covering the matter was read at the meeting. In effect it called for encouragement of cadet training and empowered the minister to act on the question. The suggestion was advanced, regular physical training periods in the curriculum could be devoted to the work. Grades 9 and up would take elementary infantry drill, and first aid would be made obligatory for students of both sexes.

The proposal, said George H. Deane, municipal inspector, merely followed up cadet work now offered on a voluntary basis in the schools. He thought the scheme could be adopted without increase to staffs and, in reply to questions by Trustee F. G. Mulliner, stated virtually no extra expenditure would be required, except for a bugle corps and for uniforms. He suggested a 30-piece band to cover the whole city organization, and thought the Department of National Defence and Parent-Teacher associations could assist in the additional financing.

CORPS NOW 750

Board chairman Trustee P. E. George noted cadet training had been encouraged last year and the existing corps had a membership of approximately 750.

Mr. Deane further stated the question of rifle range facilities was a matter for study. Rifle practice, he said, did not imply instruction in killing, but in co-ordination and steadiness.

All boys above 12, with the exception of those physically disabled, would fall within the scope of the general plan. First aid, signalling, field drill and other specialties would be taught to special groups within the corps, he said.

Trustee George voiced the opinion rifle practice should remain a voluntary branch of cadet activities.

Trustee F. A. Willis, commenting on the uniform question, remarked his boys, when cadets, had worn uniforms only once a year for inspection. Touching on necessary expenditures, he remarked the provincial government might require the board to do many things, but that it could not force the city body to spend money for which it had not budgeted.

He thought the Victoria College military training should be financed entirely by the Department of National Defence, since it was compulsory training.

40-ACRE FIRE

Fire burning over a 40-acre area in the Elk Lake region has been controlled by Saanich firemen and works department crews.

The blaze broke out Monday afternoon and spread from the neighborhood of Welch Road toward the sea through the property of A. J. Mycock. No serious damage was done, Chief J. Law of the Saanich department, reported. Firemen attended until a late hour Monday night and road crews took over from them.

Saanich Council

May Improve Water Supply

Home owners in the Ten Mile Point district who have long complained to Saanich Council over the lack of water supply for domestic consumption and also the inadequacy of the supply for fire protection in the district, may find relief to their difficulties this year.

The Saanich Council last night authorized its municipal engineer, H. H. Allen, to prepare a report of the estimated cost of extending larger mains throughout the whole area which would supply the much-needed extra volume of water for domestic consumers.

At the present time the district is fed by a two-inch main for the most part. This main is connected to a six-inch main on Tudor Avenue at a point about 100 yards east of the intersection of Tudor Avenue and Sea View Drive. This main, in turn, is fed by four and two-inch mains which join it at points further west.

The difficulty at the present time is lack of both volume and pressure on the two-inch main feeding the majority of homes in the district. There are nearly 90 connections on the small main, with the result many home owners have complained they could not get enough water during summer months for domestic purposes. An attempt to rectify the situation was made by introducing a by-law restricting use of water during certain hours of the day, but this, the council agrees, does not offer a proper solution.

At the last council meeting Mr. Allen and Councillor J. R. Scoby, Ward Three, in whose ward the district lies, were named a committee to report on the situation. The effect of their report last night was the area was without proper fire protection. They investigated the possibility of installing fire hydrants throughout the district which would draw on the salt water from the sea, but this was found impractical because these hydrants would serve an area of only 700 feet from the hydrant. Mr. Allen's opinion was that if the council was to do anything at all it should proceed with installation of proper mains throughout the Point district. Money spent on any other work, he thought, would be thrown away.

LACK FIRE PROTECTION

The effect of their report last night was the area was without proper fire protection. They investigated the possibility of installing fire hydrants throughout the district which would draw on the salt water from the sea, but this was found impractical because these hydrants would serve an area of only 700 feet from the hydrant.

Mr. Allen's opinion was that if the council was to do anything at all it should proceed with installation of proper mains throughout the Point district. Money spent on any other work, he thought, would be thrown away. Councillor George Austin, Ward Four, noted the larger main would have to be installed eventually and he thought the council should consider this project now.

In accordance with this suggestion the engineer was instructed to prepare a statement of cost on installing a six-inch main from the present terminus to the eastern intersection of Tudor Avenue and Sea View Drive and also on continuing it the entire length of Tudor Avenue to what is known as Smuggler's Cove.

Legal opinion on whether a property may be twice assessed under a local improvement measure for water services will be sought by the Saanich Council in connection with an application for subdivision of the Braefoot estate.

Braefoot interests are seeking to resubdivide six lots of the original subdivision into 39 more parcels. They want water service to each property and this project is estimated to cost $4,800. It is proposed this should be paid for on a local improvement basis.

Properties in the subdivision are now paying a local improvement assessment for the original water service and some doubt was expressed by the council as to whether a second similar assessment might be made.

The council accepted an invitation to attend the opening of the new isolation unit at the Jubilee Hospital next Wednesday at 3.30 p.m.

Preliminary readings were given a by-law for fire protection in the municipality. This by-law, patterned after a similar one in the city, deals with such offences as blocking fire equipment while responding to an alarm and other such acts interfering with the department's operation.

Thank Offerings

Sending his contribution as a thank offering on the 60th anniversary of the day he sailed from Glasgow for Manitoba, William M. Taylor, Victoria, has donated $60 towards Canada's war effort, receipt of which has been acknowledged by the Minister of Finance. Among other free-will gifts received by the government are $1.95 from eight-year-old Larry Holman of Woodroffe, Ontario, who held a bazaar to raise the amount, $2,000 from the Kilt Company, Montreal, and $5 from Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Starratt of Stewiack, N.S., in memory of a son killed in the last war.

To Investigate Water Charges

"We are paying $3,000 a year for water. We are getting one-tenth of that in water and paying the rest for the privilege of using water," declared Trustee F. A. Willis at last night's meeting of the City School Board as he called for investigation by a special committee of charges made against the board. He and Trustee F. G. Mulliner were instructed to study the question and report their findings. Trustee Willis expressed the view some readjustment should be made in the city's service charge for water, which he felt completely out of line in so far as the board was concerned.

Board Chairman P. E. George and Trustee Mulliner were appointed city delegates to the annual convention of provincial school boards scheduled at Nelson on September 23, 24 and 25. Sale of the old Bank Street School boiler for $18 as scrap was reported by Trustee Mulliner following approval of the building and grounds committee's report. Approval was given the education committee's recommendation covering the purchase of 50 lockers from the Victoria Book & Stationery Co. Limited at $7.86 apiece. The same committee also reported blinds had been placed in the High School, Beacon Hill, South Park and Victoria West.

Purchase of coal from Walter Walker & Son at prices of $9.62 a ton for Nanaimo-Wellington, $8.50 for Comox and $8.20 for nut was approved as was the contract for cordwood with J. E. Painter & Sons. The latter will supply the fuel at $4.65 a cord.

Accounts amounting to $5,190 were passed on the recommendation of the finance committee. A list of students attending the first class at the original Victoria High School, supplied by Herbert Kent, was received with thanks and ordered placed in the High School archives.

A record of High School and College boys joining the various services will be kept for future reference, as a result of action taken by the board.

Notice of a motion calling for school board meetings on the evening of the second Tuesday in each month instead of the second Monday, as has been the practice in recent years, was presented by Trustee W. A. Baylis.

The board appointed Dr. C. W. Saunders school medical health officer to succeed Dr. J. L. Murray Anderson, who resigned from that post to join the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps. Mr. Saunders took charge of schools during the absence from the city of Dr. Anderson a year or two ago.

Relief Officer Is Indispensable

G. Claude Watkins, Saanich relief officer, has been offered a commission with His Majesty's forces, but the Saanich Council will ask him to refuse it on the basis he is an indispensable employee of the municipality.

At the same time the council agreed to give him a $25 a month raise.

Mr. Watkins informed the council last night he might shortly be called up and requested the usual provision that his position be kept for him in that eventuality.

His announcement brought unanimous agreement from members of the council on the splendid work he was doing in the municipality, Councillor J. R. Scoby claiming the work he was doing was more important than serving with any office staff of His Majesty's forces. Mr. Scoby thought he should remain.

Mr. Watkins pointed out the difference in salary the appointment would mean to him and the council agreed to increase his present wage, which was considered inadequate.

Nanaimo M.P. in Scottish Uniform

After attending his first session of Parliament, Alan Chambers, M.P. for Nanaimo, this week goes into military uniform as a second lieutenant in the Canadian Scottish Regiment, Second Battalion, C.A.S.F.

Mr. Chambers completed his application for the battalion on his return from the federal capital yesterday. In the east he had tried to enter the R.C.A.F. as an air gunner, but the rigid air force tests showed up a minor defect of vision.

In the Scottish he will be with the battalion that is identified with his riding. Originally it was formed of men from Duncan, Nanaimo, Saanich, the Gulf Islands and other island points. He is the first of British Columbia's federal members to join the colors.

One member of the Legislature is an active service, Capt. Macgregor Macintosh of the Islands. In joining a Scottish regiment he is following the footsteps of his father, who served in the 51st Highlanders in the Great War.

Mr. Chambers said his first session in Parliament had given him valuable experience. Speech making was cut to the bone and members were called on for a good deal of hard work.

SOCIAL SECURITY
The Nanaimo member, who stressed in his campaign the need of a social security plan, said he regarded the passage of the Unemployment Insurance Act as a move of great importance.

"It is the first step in a balanced program of social security," he said. "I interpret the act as a forerunner of health insurance and contributory pensions, and similar security schemes."

"The act clears the path for the province to go ahead with health insurance, especially in view of the Siriol report, which leaves this field to the provinces."

"The unemployment insurance scheme does not provide for payment of benefits when a person is ill, leaving the obvious inference that it must be complemented by health insurance."

FIGHT FOR LOGGERS
Mr. Chambers was one of the B.C. group which conducted a last-minute fight to have loggers included in the unemployment insurance scheme. While they were not successful because of the actuarial requirements of the plan they were given a pledge that when the advisory committee under the act is established the arguments of the loggers will be heard. Sawmill workers on steady employment were included after the bill reached the House.

Speeding up of Canada's war program after the French collapse was probably the most significant development in Ottawa during the session Mr. Chambers said, but added that there was still a good deal of "bureaucratic ping-pong" to be eliminated.

Mr. Chambers made three speeches in his initial session. His maiden address on the war appropriations bill occasioned comment in the national newspapers, including the Winnipeg Free Press, Toronto Globe and Mail and Toronto Telegram. His other speeches were on the unemployment policy, in which he outlined what was done since the national employment commission was set up in 1935, and on the B.C. loggers' case under the unemployment insurance scheme.

NAVAL INSPECTION

As secretary of the government study group on naval affairs Mr. Chambers arranged the inspection of the Halifax defences and the convoy system by 40 members of the Commons. He also sat on the miscellaneous private bills committee and the printing committee of the House.

Mr. Chambers assisted Attorney-General Wilmers in pressing the case for a special internal security program for British Columbia through registration of firearms and formation of a special veterans' home guard.

"I think Mr. Wilmers put his finger on one of our most serious problems, and is to be complimented on his achievement," he said.

Dickens Portrayed in New Play

BOSTON (CP)—Charles Dickens, known to most readers as a serious novelist who created inimitable characters, was a bit of a ladies' man too, it seems.

Henry Harper, Boston publisher and head of the Boston Bibliophile Society, recently acquired a series of unpublished Dickens letters and as a result has written a play in collaboration with his wife. He calls it "Romantic Mr. Dickens."

The letters disclosed, Mr. Harper claims, a romantic side of the novelist hitherto neglected by his biographers. The play turns up at least four women who had considerable influence on him.

Mr. Harper says he hopes to establish Dickens not merely as a literary figure, but as a well-rounded person, intensely human and likeable. The play includes Dickens' interest in the home for "fallen women" he helped establish with Baroness Burdett-Coutts.

It will be tried out tonight in Spring Lake, N.J., and its producer, Victor Payne-Jennings, hopes to bring it to Boston and later to Broadway.

The roles of Dickens and Caroline Bronson, the young actress with whom he fell in love late in his career, are being played by Robert Keith and Erin O'Brien-Moore.

Ottawa Relaxes Physical Limits

Relaxation in physical requirements for enlistment in the non-permanent active militia or the Canadian Active Service Force, whereby a recruit 5 feet tall, weighing 120 pounds and with an unexpired chest measurement of 32 inches will be accepted, was announced today.

The new regulations will reduce the grounds for rejection. The previous minimum height for recruits was 5 feet 4 inches for all branches of the army except the artillery.

In the artillery the minimum height was 5 feet 7 inches for garrison, heavy and siege gunners. Horse artillery and field gunners had to be 5½ feet tall, while the artillery also demanded a minimum chest measurement of 34 inches.

To date youth between 18 and 19 years with a minimum chest measurements of 32 inches have been accepted in the C.A.S.F. providing their general physical condition was good and indicated a reasonable chance of developing under training.

Under the new requirements candidates for enlistment will still be divided for medical purposes into categories A, B, C and D. Categories B and C, however, will be subdivided into B1 and B2 and C1 and C2.

Category D will denote those soldiers undergoing treatment which prevents regular discharge of ordinary duties and who on completion of treatment will be fit for service in categories A, B or C.

CATEGORIES FIXED
Men with only minor, nonprogressive disabilities and able to see well enough to shoot or drive and who can undergo severe strain will be placed in category A. But these men must have no disabilities which make it difficult for them to move about quickly and normally, because they are the soldiers who will be employed in any area in theatre of war.

Category B1 will include men able to see to shoot or drive, who can undergo considerable exertion which does not involve severe strain, who can march five miles and who suffer from nothing more than nonprogressive disabilities.

These men may be employed in lines of communication at bases or on garrison duty. They may be given these duties at home or abroad except in the infantry, but can work in all units as clerks, batmen, orderlies, storemen, on sanitary duties and as skilled tradesmen. They can also be enlisted in railway troops.

Men able to see sufficiently for shooting or driving, who can walk five miles, with moderate nonprogressive disabilities and able to hear sufficiently for ordinary purposes will be in category B2. They may be employed on base duties at home or abroad or enlisted in forestry battalions.

Category C1 will include men free from serious organic diseases who are able to stand home service conditions. They must be able to walk five miles and will be regarded as fit for service only in Canada, for guard duties at vulnerable points and in internment camps.

Those in this category and already overseas may remain abroad for guard duties.

VISIT SOLARIUM
Britannia Fragments' concert party of the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion, who will soon be again entertaining the troops stationed in and around Victoria, journeyed to Mill Bay and gave a concert to the children at the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

The program consisted of songs, dances and novelty numbers. Those taking part were Miss Eva Milne, Alf Adams, G. Todd, W. Farmer, B. Lilley, G. Hepworth, D. Park, J. Matheson, J. Weeks, Miss May Shrimpton.

Alf Adams, who produced and directed the show, promised the children that the concert party would soon visit them again. This announcement was cheered by the little ones.

P. Shrimpton, stage manager of the party, at the conclusion of the show introduced one of the most "interesting" items, this being ice cream for all.

Percy Shrimpton, announced to the troupe that their first concert of the season will be given a week on Friday, when they will entertain the troops at one of the nearby forts.

Mrs. Little Wins in Halifax Tennis
HALIFAX (CP)—Mrs. Dorothy Round Little, twice Wimbledon champion, and Canadian champion Don McDiarmid of Ottawa led the favorites into the last eight of the two singles divisions of the eastern Canadian tennis championships here yesterday.

After drawing a bye, Mrs. Little, living at Bridgewater, N.S., for the duration, played easily in the second round to eliminate Mrs. G. Churchill of Halifax, 6-0, 6-1.

McDiarmid whipped George Collins, a Copper Cliff, Ont., boy spending the summer in Halifax, 6-1, 6-2. Peter MacKenzie of Ottawa, formerly of Saskatoon, eliminated the veteran H. L. Roper of Halifax, 6-3, 6-0.

Biggest upset came in the men's doubles late in the day as Collins teamed up with Joe MacDonald of New Glasgow, N.S., to defeat Ivor Fettes of Ottawa and MacKenzie, 6-4, 6-4 in the first round.

GLASGOW (CP)—Magistrates here decided to support the proposal to close public houses on Friday evenings when wages are paid. Employers say week-end drinking is reducing production.

Canadian Scottish, Second Battalion, on Parade and Off Parade at Heal's

After the day's work is done—refreshments, even to cantaloupes and ice cream.

Primping up for a trip to town—a regimental hair-cut.

Machine-gunners, in shorts and tin-lids, march off for the day's training; with guns, in pieces, on their shoulders.

Taking aim with gas mask adjusted and full kit strapped on.

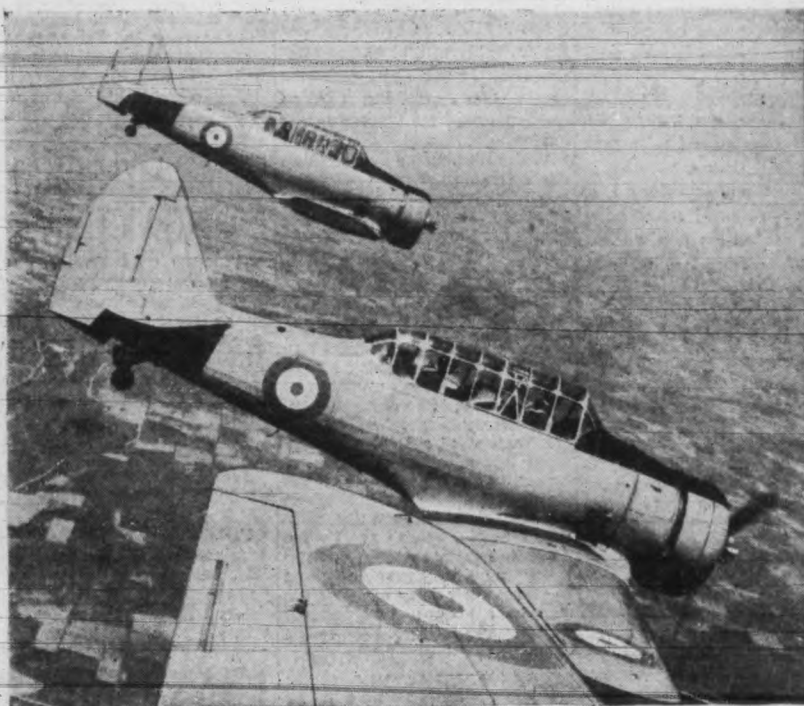

In the cookhouse—a pan of macaroni and cheese.

Instructor gives crew instructions after machine gun is set up.

35 Pilots Graduate From Camp Borden

IN FORMATION AT 200 M.P.H.—Filling the skies with a roar, fast Harvard trainers swooping over Camp Borden provided the classroom in which 35 young Canadians, "graduated" from the R.C.A.F. training station, learned the art of aerial warfare. They obtained their preliminary training in elementary flying schools in machines like Fleet Finches and Tiger Moths.

READY TO GO—Keen, alert, trained to the hilt, Canada's newest group of flying officers had their wings pinned on at Camp Borden recently, on August 6 by Group Captain A. T. Cowley, officer commanding the station. An innovation was admittance to the ceremony of wives, mothers and friends, who looked on with pride as their loved ones received the insignia of the fighting pilot.

HARASS IL DUCE'S DESERT COLUMNS—Composed of veteran desert fighters, Britain's forces in Africa are meeting Italian thrusts with tactics best adapted to the terrain. Advancing through blistering heat, the enemy troops are harassed by fast, mobile air and land units acting in close co-operation. A Blenheim bomber of the Royal Air Force here swoops over armored troop carriers in the desert, British are holding sources of water supply, which they control, while sniping at the Italians as they move through worthless country.

BRITISH PLANE ARRIVES—Camouflaged a dull green-grey, the four-motored British flying boat Clare lands at LaGuardia Field sea-plane basin, New York, after a record east-west crossing from Foynes, Ireland, to Botwood, Newfoundland, in 16 hours six minutes. She proceeded to Manhattan from Montreal. Regular weekly flights are now scheduled.

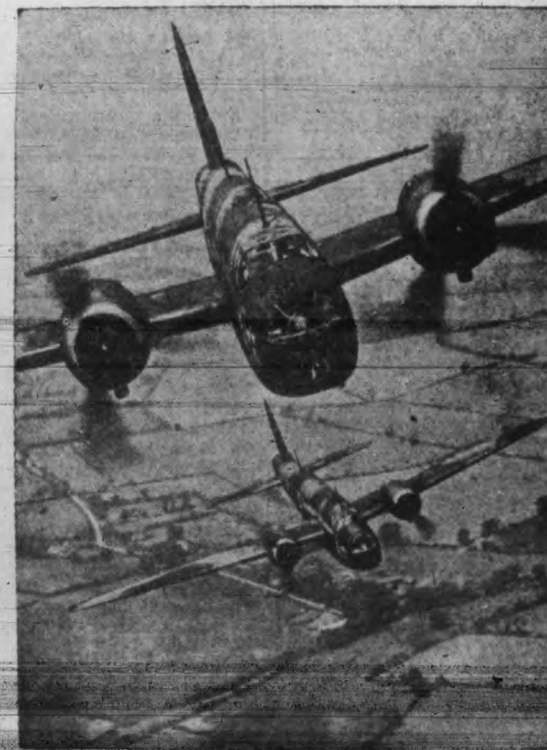

NO MORE DUDS—IT'S THE REAL THING NOW—These are just practice bombs the young R.C.A.F. airmen are loading on the racks of a Fairey battle bomber, but they may soon be real. Thirty-five youths from every province, who got their wings in a ceremony at Camp Borden recently, have learned high and low level bombing as well as dive-bombing, most recent method of aerial attack. When these dud bombs hit their mark they shoot a cloud of smoke into the air.

PROMOTED—Major J. H. Christie, second in command of the Toronto Scottish Regiment, has been raised to the rank of lieutenant-colonel and commands the newly organized officer cadet training unit, Canadian Training School in London, England.

BOTTLED IN BOND!—San Francisco World Fair will be bottled for fair when it closes its gates September 28. Here, Marie, Folies Bergere entertainer, jumps the gun by sealing in the tower of the sun.

BRITISH PILOTS HIT BACK—With their twin-motored Wellington bombers, which the boys call "Wimpy's," the daring crews of the Royal Air Force carry the war to Germany every night, bombing troop and supply concentrations, munition works and oil tanks.

Labor Shortage Apparent Here

Shortage of artisan labor in Victoria owing to war conditions is reported in a survey of 1939 employers, many of whom have been forced to delay jobs because of the condition.

The shortage is particularly noticeable among men engaged in the building and mechanical industries.

Several houses in the Greater Victoria area are being delayed in their construction because of the shortage of lathers, plasterers and carpenters.

It is not necessarily that men in these occupations have joined the active service forces, but a large number of them are employed on war work in the lower island area which demands immediate attention. The combination of this and the fact that some have joined the army has created the scarcity.

Good mechanics, particularly, are at a premium now, largely due to the fact the army and navy have drawn on them to such an extent. Many are on active service with the Army Service Corps.

Retail stores are also feeling the labor shortage in various ways, although their problem can be somewhat overcome by the employment of older men. Few of the larger stores in the city now have the personnel they had at the outbreak of war, and several are finding it necessary to make regular changes.

The prairies are beginning now to feel the acuteness of the general situation throughout Canada with the approach of the harvest season. In years past it has been the practice of men in both the east and west to head for the prairies during harvest season, but this year the trek is conspicuous by its absence.

It is reported some of the harvesting outfits are offering up to $4 a day and board for crews.

Cinder Nuisance Report Compiled

In the experience of Pacific northwest cities, it is possible to reduce the sawdust and cinder nuisance from mill burners, but impossible to eliminate it entirely. Fire Chief Alex Munroe stated in a report on the question filed today for consideration by the City Council at its next meeting.

The fire chief investigated the question in the course of his participation in the recent Spokane convention of the International Association of Fire Chiefs. In addition to making extensive inquiries at the conference Chief Munroe studied the problem at first hand in Everett and Seattle. Reporting his findings in Everett he stated: "It was very evident that the residents of that area are subject in a more marked degree than ourselves to this nuisance."

"It was the opinion of all the officials I contacted that this nuisance could be greatly curtailed and minimized through the exercising of care by mill officials and employees, but that it was impossible to entirely eliminate it and keep the mill in operation," the report said in part.

"I believe that this nuisance can be kept at a minimum," he added in relation to Victoria mills. The chief also reported on the conference, noting the importance attached by it to war emergency coverage in the prevention of fires due to sabotage in essential industries through rigid inspection work in co-operation with the management of plants concerned and in acquiring the necessary equipment to meet war conditions should this continent become involved.

He noted a report had been submitted stating the City of Boston had mounted anti-aircraft guns on its fire department apparatus.

Times Radio Editor on BBC

Gunner Dave Shepherd, who left his job as radio editor of the Times about six weeks ago to do his bit for his country, played "The Twelfth Street Rag" on his piano-accompanied from a camp "Somewhere in England" at noon today.

People who were tuned in on CBR at noon waiting for Anthony Eden to speak, heard the program from the camp and were surprised when the announcer said: "And now we have a young man all the way from Victoria, British Columbia, Dave Shepherd, who will play his accordion." Dave then tickled the ivories on his "squeeze-box" as he prefers to call it.

Gunner Shepherd, who is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Shepherd, 349 Sylvia Street, is widely known in this city and

C.P.R. Skippers Honored

A trio of Canadian Pacific deep-sea commanders—Capt. L. D. Douglas of the Empress of Japan; Capt. J. F. Patrick of the Empress of Russia, and Capt. George Gould of the Empress of Asia—were guests of honor at a ceremony held in Vancouver August 9. Capt. Douglas (left), who is retiring from the sea, was presented with a salmon rod and tackle by colleagues and friends; Capt. Patrick (centre), also retiring, received a travelling bag, and Capt. Gould (right) accepted, on behalf of the officers and crews of the Empress of Asia, the Beatty shield awarded for general efficiency and drill.

Seamen Sprayed By Machine Guns

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—The Nazi machine-gunning of helpless British seamen after the torpedoing of their ship is described in a letter received by friends here from a captain formerly engaged in the Canadian coal-carrying trade.

Capt. W. L. Clibborn, former master of a Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation collier, said 16 men of his crew had been lost when the ship was torpedoed, most of them by gunfire after the vessel sank.

The captain said a German submarine fired three torpedoes at the freighter, identity of which was not known here. The first missed, but the next two took effect, and she sank in two minutes.

Most of the crew succeeded in getting into the lifeboats, but the submarine then opened fire on the boats. They capsized. While the seamen floundered about in the water, they were machine-gunned by the Nazi crew as they attempted to climb aboard floating rafts released from the freighter before it went down.

This accounted for most of the loss of life, the captain declared. When the submarine finally left, Capt. Clibborn and the remaining survivors drifted on the rafts for eight hours until they were picked up by a Dutch steamship and taken to a British port. On arrival there, they were taken to hospital.

Urges Canada Continue Full-strength Navy

OTTAWA (CP)—A strong plea for the continuance of a full-strength navy in Canada after the end of the war was made in a luncheon address yesterday by Lieut. John Farrow, director of naval intelligence.

"After the great conflict the tendency has been to cut down immediately and destroy the defence forces," Lieut. Farrow said. "That must not happen in this country. Canada must not rely on England or any other country in the future for defence. It is too big a prize to expect adequate protection from any quarter other than herself."

Rescued Sailors Remember Cossack

LONDON (CP)—British seamen who were imprisoned for weeks aboard the German freighter Altmark have taken up a subscription to express their gratitude to their rescuers, men of the destroyer H.M.S. Cossack.

The rescued seamen purchased a piece of silverplate for the Cossack wardroom and a bronze plaque commemorating the event which will be affixed on the ship.

Britain Guards Western Ports

LONDON (CP)—Plans already have been made to meet any situation arising from damage German air raiders may do to Britain's cargo-choked western ports, Donald Cross, Minister of Shipping, told a conference of newspapermen. He predicted the Germans would increase their mass attacks to include these ports.

Replying to queries of newsmen, Mr. Cross said all western ports are "pretty full and at a point where congestion may be envisaged."

He said Britain has numerous small ports and numerous small coastal vessels, so that if the large ports are made un navigable the cargoes will be lightered from big ships to coastal vessels, and in this way distributed to the various sections of the United Kingdom.

At present Britain has the largest merchant fleet the world has ever seen, and though shipping in east coast ports "all suffered to some extent" from German air attacks, "it is not right to say we are having any difficulty provisioning England."

75,000 Tons of Shipping Sunk

LONDON (CP)—The Admiralty announced yesterday that British and neutral shipping losses for the week ended August 5 amounted to 75,124 tons.

The Admiralty announcement, denying German claims that 232,743 tons of shipping were sunk during this period, said the losses consisted of 13 British ships totaling 60,058 tons, one Allied ship of 1,296 tons and five neutral vessels totaling 13,769 tons.

The Admiralty stated that "the combined losses are certainly more than for the previous week, but British losses are rather less."

The statement placed German losses up to August 12 at approximately 923,000 tons and Italian losses at 259,000 tons, with an additional 29,500 tons sunk of other shipping under German or Italian control.

The report for the week ended July 29 listed sinking of 18 British ships totaling 65,601 tons and two Allied ships totaling 7,079 tons.

Melt Bellerophon's Guns for Scrap

FALMOUTH, Eng. (CP)—Declaring that "we don't need mementoes to remind us of Britain's glorious past," the town council yesterday ordered the guns of the frigate Bellerophon, on which Napoleon surrendered after Waterloo, melted for military scrap iron. The Bellerophon, launched in 1756, escorted Lord Nelson's body home after Trafalgar, where he was wounded fatally.

Wheat

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trading in wheat futures on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange was almost a complete blank today, with only a few trades reached in October wheat. Prices closed at the minimum fixed levels of 73½ cents a bushel for October and 74½ cents a bushel for December.

Reports from New York that 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been worked for export from the eastern seaboard yesterday could not be confirmed here.

Wheat was ½ cent lower on the Chicago market just before noon, presumably owing to lack of interest. Buenos Aires was unchanged to ½ cent lower at noon.

Mills were credited with picking up small quantities of Nos. 2 and 3 northern on the cash wheat market. Prices remained within a narrow range.

Routine operations were carried out in oats and barley in the coarse grain pit. Malsters gave some support to barley, but flax was entirely neglected.

Conger Eel Reaches Length of 10 Feet

Eels have been called "snake-like fish," and that is what they really are. Many eels have small scales, but even so their bodies are smooth to the touch, as are snakes. Eels swim after the manner of snakes, but go much faster. Usually a full-grown eel is from two to four feet long. There are cases, however, of eels with a length of from six to 10 feet.

The female eel grows larger than the male. The difference may not amount to much, but among the conger eels it is very great. The female conger may be more than twice the size of a male. Conger eels are the biggest in the family. Several are on record with a length of nine or 10 feet, and a weight of from 90 to 110 pounds.

A giant conger eel may have a body six inches thick. In its mouth are sharp, closely-placed teeth, and it can bite its enemies with great force. If a fisherman pulls up such an eel, he should take great care. It is a strong fish, and if loose in the boat can do damage.

Conger eels spend all their lives in the sea. In this way they differ from most other eels, which dwell in salt water only part of the time. Another eel which lives only in salt water is the "thread eel" or "snake eel." It has a body hardly thicker than a lead pencil, but its length is from two to three feet.

Another queer type is the "spiny Africa and the East Indies. They have many sharp spines along the back. The jet black "gulper eel" is a deep sea fish. It grows to be five or six feet long, and is noted for its strong appetite.

The gulper has a big mouth and its under jaw can be swung about freely. Sometimes this eel attacks fish which are too big for it to handle. A gulper was found dead at the surface of the ocean and inside it was a fish of large size.

Stork Brings Babies by Score To Mass Marriage Participants

By A. W. O'BRIEN

MONTREAL — One year ago 105 couples knelt before 105 priests in the sun-drenched Montreal baseball stadium and repeated the French equivalent of "I do" while 20,000 persons looked on.

The first mass marriage on this continent, it was designed to offset "the unfavorable publicity marriage is getting in the world's divorce courts." While the crowd cheered and a borrowed church bell pealed, the 105 couples walked arm-in-arm across a red and blue carpet to repeat the marriage vows simultaneously.

M. STORK BUSY

Well, a year has passed and the couples celebrated their first anniversary on July 23. How are they getting on? Have they survived that perilous first year? How many deaths? How many divorces? How many babies?

Monsieur Stork has been busy indeed. He has visited or is about to visit 77 of the 105 couples, according to a report on the mass marriage just issued by the sponsoring agency, Jeunesse Ouvrière Catholique (Young Catholic Workers).

Twenty couples have already welcomed their first arrivals; 57 more are "expecting."

Death, too, has touched the participants. One of the husbands, M. Paradis of Montreal, died only a month after the ceremony. He was ill for some time before the wedding day, and there was speculation about his being able to attend. He left before the benediction, returned to his sick bed.

One of the wives, Mme. Manseau of Three Rivers, also died—the result of bearing a baby prematurely.

A set of twins were the first births recorded to participants in the mass marriage, coming last February 11 to M. and Mme. Gaston Jarry of Verdun, Que. But the births were premature and the twins died.

First baby that lived was the child of M. and Mrs. Elphège Leclerc of Drummondville, Que. Of the 104 husbands living, 91 are currently employed. One of these, according to unofficial reports, may have been a casualty in the brief sojourn of the Canadian First Division in France.

Thirteen of the wives are working.

All of the couples were asked,

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile each day. If it doesn't, it's a sign of liver trouble. It's the most important organ in your body. It filters out all the poisons from your blood. It makes the bile that helps you digest your food. It makes the sugar that gives you energy. It makes the hormones that control your body. It makes the blood that carries oxygen to all the cells in your body. It makes the bile that helps you digest your food. It makes the sugar that gives you energy. BAYS WIN IN OVERTIME go in the quarter. Norm Baker delivered. Red Baker made it 3 to 2 and Wallace evened the count before the period closed.

The score was tied at 5 to 5 at the half-time mark, and at the end of a hectic third quarter Bays led 8 to 8.

As the third quarter drew to a close, checking got so rough that three of the Bays' men were sent to the "dog house." They were: Norm Baker, for five minutes; Red Baker and Ernie Ball, each for two minutes.

Sixteen penalties were called, Bays drawing 10 of them, which included three five-minute spells.

Sharing scoring honors on Bays' club were Wallace, with a total of seven goals, and Red Baker with six.

Reg. Allen, hard-working Jokers' forward, led his team in scoring with four. Lynn Patrick and Clarence Ottke were next in line with three apiece.

Jim Skellern, Jokers' net minder, turned in another great performance, stopping a total of 52 shots. Skellern looked as good on any of the shots as the veteran Art McKim did in Bays' goal. McKim stopped 41 shots.

Ross and Macmurchie, refereed and team fellows.

James Bay—A. McKim, Mason 1, Ball 1, Nicol, Wallace 7, Doherty 1, R. Baker 6, E. McKim 1, Cullin 1, N. Baker 2, McKeechie and C. Chapman. Total 20.

Jokers—Skellern, Uttke 3, Coleman, L. Patrick 3, B. Mair, Smith 1, R. Allen 4, Ovcharick 1, Ludbrook 2, McLean, M. Patrick 1 and Entwistle. Total 15.

In a preliminary battle, Owl Drug beat Douglas Tire 15 to 13. Twenty penalties were called in this game. Seven of them were for five minutes each.

Famous Siege Recalled

Chas. G. Palmer, 93, Last Lucknow Survivor Dies

Charles G. Palmer, 93, last survivor of the Siege of Lucknow, in the Indian Mutiny, died in hospital at Duncan yesterday, following a stroke suffered several days ago.

A son of the late General Henry Palmer, he was born at Jalandhar, in the Punjab, October 15, 1847. He was 10 years old when the siege began and he saw his sister killed by a cannonball while the family was seated at the breakfast table.

Mr. Palmer used to recall for his friends and neighbors the thrilling days of the Indian Mutiny. He told how he did all he could, carried messages and ammunition for the soldiers. For this good work he was awarded the Lucknow Medal for Bravery, of which he was justifiably proud.

"Yes, it's a long time ago," Mr. Palmer said not long ago, "but certain incidents of the siege still stand out vividly in my memory. I remember the things a small boy would especially notice."

"I recall the excited buzz and talk about a Scotch girl, named Jane, saying she saw and heard the Highlanders approaching two days before they got in and brought relief. I would not call this supernatural; it may have been she had a much keener sense of hearing. Nevertheless the incident was a popular topic and one of mystery."

SMOKED TEA LEAVES

Mr. Palmer said there was no actual lack of food during the siege, although fresh vegetables, bread and butter were scarce. So was tobacco and the men smoked used tea leaves instead.

"Nearly every wound went septic and the patient died, even though the injury was not serious. This was because of the poor condition of the blood, due to body strain and the intense heat. Conditions were not very pleasant and nearly every day someone you knew was killed," he said.

British forces in India were confronted with gruelling days following the rebellion of the native forces. The circles of blacks finally drew in around Lucknow, where Sir Henry Lawrence was in command. The rebels, under Sahib, called on the garrison to surrender but Lawrence refused. They had heard of Cawnpore, where Sahib had promised to spare the British if they surrendered. When the British accepted the offer Sahib broke his word and massacred the entire party.

On June 30 Lawrence conducted a reconnaissance and on ascertaining the strength of the advancing force ordered a retreat to the Residency.

On July 1 the garrison repulsed the first attack and three days later Lawrence was killed.

Mr. Palmer was pressed into service with the other small boys to carry ammunition and run messages.

NATIVES DRIVEN BACK

For nearly three months the natives swarmed up to the Residency, but were driven back. Sometimes the men were firing at one another from 50 yards.

The garrison was reduced to 983 and many of the men were sick and wounded.

Then came the first relief. Sir Henry Havelock and his Highlanders swept through gaps in the ranks of Sahib.

With Havelock and his men inside the Residency the siege was clamped down again, and it was not until November 17, 1857, that Sir Colin Campbell, with fresh troops from London and guided by Thomas Henry Kavanagh, who made his way from the Residency disguised as a native, reached Lucknow and defeated the Sahib.

A year ago the only other survivor of the siege died in England. He was Col. George Christie, who was 98. His death left Mr. Palmer the only survivor. Now they are all gone. There is no living link with the famous event of British history in India.

Mr. Palmer lived many years in India. He served as an engineer with the Indian government and did splendid service during the great famines of 1896 and 1897, and was decorated with the C.I.E.

In 1910 Mr. Palmer came to Vancouver Island and lived at "Stony Patch," overlooking Cowichan Lake, near Duncan. He was a director of the Cowichan Creamery for a number of years, and in 1917 was president of the United Farmers of British Columbia. He was also councillor for North Cowichan municipality from 1914 to 1918 and police commissioner from 1915 to 1924.

Getting in Shape for Emergencies

You don't have to be in the permanent forces to be prepared for the defence of Canada as these young men of the 3rd Battalion, Canadian Scottish, discover as they go through their paces at the Armouries. "A very smart showing," said Lieut-Col. Brooke Stephenson as he watched last night's parade. Top, the sergeant-major explains a phase of squad drill to one group. Among them, Ellbeck Wilson, well-known fisherman and scattergun artist; Harry Buckle, another expert at the traps, and Cecil Brown. Below, taking things seriously, a squad snaps into the "left, right, left right" of marching step. Several outstanding Victoria golfers and athletes are in the Scottish ranks, among them Harold Brynjolfsson, Ted Colgate, Bill Newcombe, Ken Lawson, Goldie Terry and Art Chapman.

These are typical of the questions the women of Canada will be asked when they register

THE human resources of the nation must find their fullest and freest expression. The abilities and powers of our women must be mobilized as well as that of our men. Registration is the first necessary step. Since the outbreak of hostilities, the women of Canada have individually, through Church, Red Cross, Women's Clubs and other organizations, responded magnificently to the urgent call of the nation. In addition to these, however, there are thousands of others who, within the limits of their time and capacity, are anxious and willing to do their bit. National Registration will open up for these women new opportunities for national service. Many positions left vacant by men who have enlisted, or will enlist, will have to be filled. Many men, now employed, because of necessary transfer to war work, may have to be replaced by women.

REGISTRATION DATES: August 19th, 20th, 21st

VOLUNTEER WORKERS NEEDED—The work entailed in registering more than eight million people in three days will be enormous. Volunteer workers will be welcomed. As an immediate way of assisting you are invited to get in touch with your local registration officials and offer your services.

WHERE TO REGISTER

Registration offices are being set up by electoral districts in the same manner as in the last Dominion election.

Registrants are required to register in the regular polling subdivisions of their own constituencies. But should a registrant be in some other province or district out of the regular polling subdivision on Registration Days, he or she may register at any registration office convenient, upon satisfactory explanation to the local deputy registrar.

Penalty for Non-Registration—Failure to register will make any male or female, married or single, over the age of 16 years, liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred dollars, or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months, or to both such fine and imprisonment, and moreover to a further penalty not exceeding ten dollars for each day, after the day upon which he should have registered, during which he shall continue to be unregistered.

Minister of National War Services

Your Registration Certificate

To every person answering the questionnaire fully and satisfactorily a certificate of registration will be issued by the local deputy registrar. This is a small card which must be carried on the person at all times.
